MEYER RELEASES JUDGE'S DECISION . . .

Ruling On Border Feud Favorable To Nebraska

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The eight-year-old border feud between Nebraska and Iowa entered its final phase Thursday as a special master appointed by the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in favor of Nebraska.

U.S. Senior District Judge Joseph P. Willson's decision, which was announced at a press conference called by Attorney General Clarence A. H. Meyer, held that Iowa violated the 1943 Boundary Compact.

The decision, however, may still be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. Meyer said he doubted the high court would overturn the special master's decision.

The issue at stake in the suit is whether after an area originally within Nebraska boundaries which later was on the Iowa side of the river due to a change in the river's course, was the property of the original owner or whether it belonged to Iowa.

In his conclusion, Willson, the third special master to handle the case, concluded that "a title good in Nebraska . . . is now a title good in Iowa. However, that parcel of land when ceded to Iowa is subject to the real property laws of Iowa. It is only the title which Iowa must recognize under the compact and which takes precedence over her common law doctrine."

The decision holds that the original owner has title to the land, but the Nebraska law of accretion does not hold within the territorial limits of Iowa.

Nebraska law says the property owner is entitled to additional land built up by accretion along the Missouri River, while Iowa reserves such land to the state.

Meyer noted, however, that "the decision does not set the boundaries; it provides a basis for a permanent boundary agreement."

"Ownership will in fact affect the eventual boundary decisions."

The area in question is worth $7.5 million and involves 14,000 acres scattered along the Missouri River. The two particular areas mentioned in the suit were the 1,550 acre Nottleman Island which is about 5 miles south of Plattsmouth and Schemmel Island, a 550 acre area 5 miles south of Nebraska City.

The dispute originated in 1961 when the Iowa Conservation Commission claimed the areas for the state without reimbursement to Nebraskans owning the property.

Meyer complimented State Surveyor Willis L. Brown and the two lawyers from Omaha who handled the case, Howard H. Moldenhauer and Joseph R. Moore, for the "outstanding" job they did.

WIND DAMAGES BANK BUILDING

Winds gusting up to 60 miles per hour Thursday threatened to blow out a window on the 13th St. side of the new First National Bank Building, top photo. Capt. Robert Myers, of the Lincoln Police Dept., said traffic was detoured off of 13th from N to M for about 30 minutes early in the afternoon. Pedestrian traffic was also stopped on the west side of 13th but passersby on the east side of the street, bottom photo, were afforded a good view of the damage. (Star Photos.)

Mansfield Move Adopted 57-38

. . . Bill To Go Back To House

Washington (UPI) — The Senate, in a second rebuff of President Nixon's Vietnam policies, voted Thursday for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina by spring if all American prisoners of war are released.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield's amendment setting a six-month timetable for withdrawal and release of U.S. prisoners was adopted 57 to 38 as a rider to a $21 billion weapons bill. That bill will be returned to the House, which has refused so far to impose any restrictions on President Nixon's Vietnam policies.

"It is hereby declared," reads the amendment, "to be the policy of the United States to terminate at the earliest practicable date all military operations of the United States in Indochina and to provide for the prompt and orderly withdrawal of all United States military forces not later than six months after the date of enactment of this section subject to release of all American prisoners of war held by the government of North Vietnam and forces allied with such government."

Another Lost In House

A similar measure passed the Senate 57 to 42 on June 22 as a rider to the draft bill, but later — after a 219-176 House vote against it — was expunged in a Senate-House conference.

Opponents of the amendment predicted the same thing would happen when the procurement bill is sent to conference to draft a compromise with the House version which contains no restriction on Vietnam.

Mansfield, however, said, "All we can do is try."

Passage of the amendment followed three hours of shouted exchanges across the center aisle and public confessions of guilt for the war and its casualties.

"We are all to blame," said Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I. "but this is the last clear chance we have to stop this tragic war."

'We've Got To Face It'

Mansfield said he was not trying to usurp the President's powers as commander in chief, but to remove "this albatross from around his neck. We've got to face up to this issue and face up to it again and again and again."

Administration backers charged that Democrats were trying to cash in on Nixon's success in cutting U.S. troop commitments to Vietnam in half.

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., the GOP national chairman, said the same men who voted for the "declaration of war" in 1964 now wanted a "declaration of peace" in Vietnam.

That brought Mansfield out of his chair, slashing with his right arm.

"I object," he said. "The senator from Kansas may have voted for a declaration of war but the senator from Montana did not. The Gulf of Tonkin Resolution was not a declaration of war."

"It's time Congress shared some of the blame," Dole replied.

The Senate approved Mansfield's amendment after defeating, 51 to 42, an amendment by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., to stop the Army from buying six prototypes of the XM803 main battle tank.

The closeness of the vote could mean that the tank prototypes will be left out of the bill when conferees write the final compromise version. The House has already rejected purchase of any XM803s, confining this year's outlay to $27.5 million.

$1.1 Million Per Tank

Eagleton contended the tanks were so expensive — an estimated $1.1 million apiece — that they would rob vital defense funds and weaken the nation's overall defense posture.

But Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., said the Soviet Union was now developing a new tank that could be superior to the existing U.S. M60A1, an early 1960s design.

The new XM803 would have a three-man crew, a lower silhouette, an automatic loader, improved armor and other features. Cannon said it could move 50% faster than the M60A1 and would carry the deadly Shillelagh missile.

New Look At Property Tax In School Financing Ordered

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon ordered federal education officials Thursday to re-examine the role of the local property tax in public school financing in light of a California Supreme Court decision declaring it unconstitutional.

Nixon's instructions were reported by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson after Nixon met for an hour and 20 minutes with representatives of nine elementary and secondary school organizations, his first such meeting since he took office.

Richardson told newsmen that financial support for education should move from "a narrowly based, regressive local tax to a more broadly based national tax."

The meeting was arranged by the U.S. Office of Education after Mrs. Helen Bain, then president of the National Education Association, attacked the administration last June as "the most anti-education administration this country has had for years." She said any president who vetoed two school aid appropriations bills as inflationary "should be held accountable."

More Money Needed

Delegates at the meeting reported, however, that the discussion dealt primarily with school districts' overwhelming need for more money and with implications of the California decision of Aug. 30.

The California Supreme Court ruled that California's entire system for financing public schools, based primarily on local property taxes, violated the equal protection guarantee of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution because it provided more money for schools in wealthy neighborhoods than in poor areas.

Kenneth E. Buhrmaster of Scotia, N.Y., president of the National School Boards

Association, said the educators proposed that federal aid be increased from the present 7-8% of local school budgets to about 40%.

Other Groups

Other groups represented in the meeting were the American Association of School Administrators, American Federation of Teachers, Council of Chief State School Officers, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Catholic Education Association, and National Association of State Boards of Education, knocking it down.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader meanwhile told a Senate subcommittee on equal educational opportunity it would be better to enforce the property tax for schools uniformly throughout the states than

He said schools would get billions of dollars in added revenues if the property tax were levied as heavily against industry as it is on individuals.

Regents Reviewing 'Time Out'

University of Nebraska regents met privately here Thursday night, according to sources on the Lincoln campus, to discuss the "Time Out" conference on human sexuality scheduled for next week.

The Star learned the regents gathering was discussed informally at the regular weekly meeting of the Council on Student Life, a faculty-student body which deals with non-academic student matters on the UNL campuses.

Sources said it was understood members of the board met for several hours with university administrators at the Nebraska Center for Education. Only topic for discussion, they said, was the upcoming conference, which features four days of speeches and rap sessions on topics such as sex education, human sexuality from ethnic points of view and sexual relationships.

Of particular concern by some members of the board, they said, are the scheduled appearances of Jack Baker, student body president at the University of Minnesota, and his male marriage partner.

Also of concern is the planned appearance of two women who will publish in the spring a book called "Lesbian Women."

The sources said a number of students on the campus believed the board may have considered holding a special weekend meeting, possibly to issue a statement on the conference, set for next Tuesday through Friday.

They said it was not known what, if any, decision board members may have reached.

When a student or faculty member calls for a book at the University of Nebraska's Love Memorial Library these days, it may not be there.

But the book may not be checked out to someone else, either.

The volume may be one of the 250,000 (one-fourth of the total collection) that must be stored elsewhere on the campus because Love Library is not big enough.

"The seriousness of the problem can't be overemphasized," said John Heussman, who has been director of university libraries since late last summer.

Costs Time, Money

Not only is it inconvenient and frustrating for students and faculty members to wait for books to be retrieved from shelves in other parts of the campus, but it also costs time and money to move them there, find them when they are needed and then move them back, Heussman said.

The result, library officials say, is that many students who cannot be easily served simply don't try anymore.

"We have long since reached the point when students are staying away," said Eugene Johnson, associate libraries director.

As a "stopgap" measure, the university a year ago opened an "undergraduate library" in Nebraska Hall, and it is now stocked with about 50,000 volumes.

Tour That Facility

During orientation week, freshmen tour that facility instead of Love Library, a factor which may account for the near-doubling in utilization at the undergrad library this year.

The $6.5 million plan for an addition to Love called for one entire floor for use as an undergraduate facility, but when the plan was scaled down to $3.2 million, two floors of the proposed addition were lopped off. One of them would have been the undergraduate library.

Assuming the Legislature appropriates funds next year to build the smaller addition, most of the space will go for book storage and offices, freeing room in the present building for student use and relieving crowded office conditions.

Maintain Nebraska Hall

Present plans are to maintain the Nebraska Hall library, which is close to the newer dormitory complexes.

In the meantime, university librarians continue to shuffle books to and fro — 53,000 were moved out of Love during the summer alone.

At an acquisition rate of 75,000 books a year, "we will fill every shelf (on the campus) in early 1973," said Johnson. But even if the 1972 Legislature does appropriate the construction funds, "we certainly won't have the new building" by the time shelf-space runs out, he added.

Goal for the library, according to Heussman, is to move it to the top of the Big 8. In terms of the number of volumes and the percentage of monetary support, it ranks about fifth now, he said.

Don't Match Up

"We don't by comparison match up very well," Heussman said.

"Books are a repository of human knowledge to be drawn upon," said Howard Norland, chairman of the university student-faculty library committee. And the books are needed, he said, for both student educational efforts and faculty research.

Without a good research facility, he added, the state is at a disadvantage with other states in attempts to attract business and industry.

"Business tends to go where there is good research," he said.

Improvement in the library's physical plant and materials has been a top priority of the university community for years.

Heads The List

A capital construction appropriation for the addition heads the regents' list of requests, and student surveys have shown it ranks high with them.

Faculty members have complained of lack of facilities and materials for years, as well.

"We cannot have a first-class university unless we have a first-class library," said Norland.

Ginger Rakes North Carolina Shore

Morehead City, N.C. (AP) — Hurricane Ginger ravished 70 miles of North Carolina shoreline with winds, tides and rains Thursday, then moved slightly inland and caused serious flooding to the north.

Mayor Axum Smith of Belhaven a small town near Washington, N.C., said much of his town was under floodwaters from the Pamlico River. The water made the police station inoperable, he said, and an emergency facility had to be set up.

Near Washington, about 50 homes were feared to have been damaged by floodwaters from the river, which backed up with high tides. At least six businesses were flooded.

As Ginger made landfall in the Morehead City-Beaufort area with winds gusting to near 90 m.p.h., it caused power blackouts in some areas, brought tidal flooding of some streets and highways, capsized a few mobile homes, uprooted trees, interrupted telephone service and smashed plate glass windows.

Some coastal residents evacuated their homes. The Red Cross estimated that 5,000 took refuge in 28 shelters it established along the coast in churches, schools and National Guard armories.

As tides five feet above normal backed water into the mouth of the Trent and Neuse River confluence near New Bern, an oil company's tanks on a riverside lot floated away. Some broke open and their contents atop the water caused a fire hazard. Police blocked traffic entering the area and said the tanks would endanger boating until they can be plucked out.

Gordon Raeburn of Atlanta, Ga., regional manager of the Insurance Information Institute, estimated damage in the Morehead City-Beaufort area at $900,000.

That was before the flooding was reported in Washington, N.C., and several surrounding counties halfway between Cape Lookout and the Virginia coast.

As night fell, the Pamlico River at Washington began rising and flooded roads around Washington and two small towns nearby, Swan Quarter and Belhaven.

The water isolated Whichard's Beach, a development of about 50 houses on a peninsula just across the river from Washington. Observers said 12 persons were stranded.

New York Times
News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — Treasury Secretary Connally told the International Monetary Fund's annual meeting Thursday that the United States would remove the 10% import surcharge if other nations would genuinely allow their currencies to float freely upward against the dollar and if some took "specific" measures to reduce barriers against American exports. (More on Page 2.)

Ralph Bunche Retires

United Nations, N.Y. — Ralph J. Bunche retired as U.N. undersecretary for special political affairs. Bunche won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950 for his role as a mediator in the armistice negotiations between Israel and the Arab state following the 1948 war. (More on Page 21.)

Face-To-Face Meet Proposed

United Nations, N.Y. — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, in a speech to the General Assembly, proposed that he and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad meet "here this month" under the chairmanship of the United States or Swedish Ambassador Gunnar V. Jarring. Riad, who is in New York, was not present for the speech.

Soviet Defector Identified

London — Oleg Lyalin was identified by the British Foreign Office as the Soviet KGB agent who defected early last month and gave the British evidence that triggered the expulsion of 105 Soviet officials. (More on Page 12.)

Senate Votes For Pullout

Washington — The Senate adopted an amendment offered by majority leader Mike Mansfield calling for the total withdrawal of American forces from Indochina within six months, provided all American prisoners are released. (More on Page 1.)

88 Freeze Violations Found

New York — The Internal Revenue Service said 88 violations of the wage-price freeze were found during 1,723 spot checks made by federal agents. An IRS spokesman said that in 47 of the 88 cases, the individual or company voluntarily complied with the freeze when informed of the violation. The remaining cases were turned over to the Office of Emergency Preparedness for action.

Earmarked College Aid OK'd

Washington — Legislation that would provide earmarked federal grants for every college and university in the country was approved by the House Education and Labor Committee. The bill would base grants on the number of students in each school and would continue present student aid programs for five more years.

Bacon Arrest Illegal

San Francisco — The arrest of Leslie Bacon as a material witness to force her to testify about the bombing of the Capitol was declared illegal by a federal appeals court. (More on Page 12.)

Democratic Formula Overturned

Washington — A U.S. appeals court overturned a formula for allocating Democratic convention delegates to give more power to the larger states. (More on Page 12.)

Attica Investigators Named

New York — Five judges, who were selected by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and legislative leaders, named a nine-member commission to conduct an investigation of the Attica prison uprising. The panel will be headed by Robert B. McKay, dean of the New York University Law School, and will also include a former convict and a criminology student.

Connally Says U.S. Prefers Giving Up Gold Cornerstone

Washington (UPI) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Thursday told U.S. trading partners demanding devaluation of the dollar that the United States prefers to abandon gold as the basis for settling accounts in any new world monetary system.

To raise the official price of gold, now $35 an ounce, and thus devalue the dollar would be "of no economic significance" and would only prolong reliance on gold as the cornerstone of a currency exchange system urgently in need of reform, Connally said.

Speaking in conciliatory terms to governors of the International Monetary Fund and World Bank, Connally expressed "great interest" in recent suggestions for alternatives.

This was an apparent reference to proposals by several major powers, including Britain, France and Japan, to shift from gold and dollars to special drawing rights (SDRs), the "paper gold" reserve asset created by the IMF in 1968, as the principal unit against which all other currencies are valued.

While hinting at compromise in U.S. efforts to overcome its chronic balance of payments deficit, Connally reserved making concessions until the hard bargaining begins when the Group of Ten, the major industrial nations, meet in Paris in mid-November.

But he spurned demands for devaluation and removal of the 10% U.S. surcharge on imports "as a prelude to negotiations."

"A change in the gold price is of no economic significance and would be patently a retrogressive step in terms of our objective to reduce, if not eliminate, the role of gold in any new monetary system," Connally said.

"Removal of the surcharge, prior to making substantial progress toward our objectives, would accomplish nothing toward correcting the balance of payments deficit."

Connally set general conditions for removal of the import surcharge without holding out any target date.

"If other governments will make tangible progress toward dismantling specific barriers to trade over coming weeks and will be prepared to allow market realities freely to determine exchange rates for their currencies for a transitional period, we, for our part, would be prepared to remove the surcharge," he said.

Connally made a strong pitch for free "floating" of currencies to let them reach a level of value based solely on supply and demand in international money markets.

Without mentioning any country by name, he said several nations had intervened in the process with the result that "some adjustments clearly needed are being delayed or thwarted, the process of multilateral decision-making impeded, and political questions multiplied."

U.S. Releases $700 Million For Road Safety Projects

Washington (AP) — The Transportation Department released Thursday a multimillion-dollar flood of funds for new jobs in highway safety projects.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe announced three major steps in the federal-aid highway program "to increase highway safety and stimulate jobs in areas of high unemployment."

Volpe said President Nixon approved, as the first step, the release of $400 million as an addition to current federal-aid highway allocations.

These funds will be augmented by amounts previously made available to the states but not used in the first quarter of the 1971-72 fiscal year, from July through September, 1971, Volpe said.

This will make "a total of about $700 million available, that can be channeled quickly into highway safety projects," he added.

"Along with this release of additional highway funds, I am also announcing the regular second-quarter fiscal year 1972 release of funds for federal-aid highways totaling $1.145 billion."

Volpe urged that rail-highway grade crossing safety projects be given priority in the use of funds.

Volpe said other safety projects to be funded include skid-proofing slippery sections of roads, widening bridges and shoulders, eliminating roadside obstructions, replacing obsolete and unsafe bridge structures, and reconstructing entrance and exit ramps on older expressways.

SIDNEY CUTS JUDY'S SLEEP

Philadelphia Zoo hostess Judy Carroll hasn't had an uninterrupted night's sleep in more than two months. The reason is that she has to get up once every hour to feed Sidney. He's a healthy 5-month-old kangaroo now, but back in July he was forced out of his mother's pouch, three months too soon. Sidney had little chance to survive, so Judy took him home and put him in a laundry basket with an electric heating pad. Judy feeds the miniature marsupial with a doll-sized bottle.

Ziegler Says No Decision Reached On Island A-Test

Washington (AP) — President Nixon has reached no decision on whether to allow an underground test of a five-megaton atomic weapon at Amchitka, an island in Alaska's Aleutian chain, the White House said Thursday.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, responding to a question prompted by published reports the United States planned to proceed with the test next month, said Nixon "has not" reached a decision

Two Artillery Bases Surrounded

Saigon (AP) — The South Vietnamese command flew reinforcements Thursday to the aid of two surrounded artillery bases along the Cambodian border, but senior U.S. officers said the North Vietnamese offensive has slowed, at least temporarily.

About 2,000 government troops were ferried by American and South Vietnamese helicopters to both sides of the frontier in efforts to relieve its at Fire Base Alpha in eastern Cambodia and Fire Base Tran Hung Dao on the Vietnamese side of the border.

At last report by nightfall, the defenders still held the bases and the airlifted relief forces were moving toward them.

Officers at Tay Ninh, forward headquarters 55 miles northwest of Saigon, said enemy rocket and mortar attacks dropped off drastically Thursday from the heavy shelling of the four previous days.

A senior U.S. adviser said North Vietnamese pressure on the two fire bases had "eased considerably." They had been the main targets of the enemy attacks since Sunday.

Skyraider Shot Down

In other developments, the U.S. Command said an American fighter-bomber was shot down on a combat mission over the Plain of Jars in central Laos Thursday. The two crewmen were killed in the crash of the A1 Skyraider, a propeller-driven craft.

The U.S. Command's weekly casualty report showed 29 Americans died in action in Vietnam last week, 16 more than in the previous week.

It was the first time in 11 weeks that the combat death toll exceeded 20. The increase was attributed partly to changes in casualty listings, spokesmen said. Six men previously listed as missing or wounded were changed to dead in the latest summary.

The command also reported 47 Americans wounded in action last week, compared with 64 reported wounded in the previous week.

The South Vietnamese command said 263 government troops were killed and 615 were wounded last week, compared to 397 reported killed and 755 wounded of a week earlier.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands jointly claimed 1,331 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers killed last week, compared with 1,572 reported killed two weeks ago.

The casualty totals for the last decade of the conflict were: The United States—45,543 killed, 301,747 wounded, 9,787 deaths from nonhostile causes such as illness and accidents; South Vietnam—133,617 killed, 289,250 wounded, and North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—773,768 killed.

Harris Introduces Bill To Whittle Companies

(c) Washington Star

Washington — Sen. Fred R. Harris, the newest candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, Thursday introduced legislation to break up most of the nation's large corporations.

Harris, calling himself the "New Populist" candidate, said the legislation, if enacted, would result in lower prices to consumers and a lessening of political influence by the tycoons of industry.

The Oklahoma senator told a group of newsmen before he introduced the legislation that he does not expect it to pass any time soon but that he expects to make it a major issue in his campaign.

He said the legislation would affect about one-third of all manufacturing firms in the country, including all major corporations in the fields of steel, automobiles, containers, oil and aluminum.

When he announced for the presidency last week, Harris said that General Motors should be broken up into five separate companies.

"Now is the time for the Congress to challenge the myth that big is always best—that what's good for the big corporation like GM is good for the American people," he said.

New York Times News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service
Washington — Treasury Secretary Connally told the International Monetary Fund's annual meeting Thursday that the United States would remove the 10% import surcharge if other nations would genuinely allow their currencies to float freely upward against the dollar and if some took "specific" measures to reduce barriers against American exports. (More on Page 2.)

Ralph Bunche Retires
United Nations, N.Y. — Ralph J. Bunche retired as U.N. undersecretary for special political affairs. Bunche won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950 for his role as a mediator in the armistice negotiations between Israel and the Arab state following the 1948 war. (More on Page 21.)

Face-To-Face Meet Proposed
United Nations, N.Y. — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, in a speech to the General Assembly, proposed that he and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad meet "here this month" under the chairmanship of the United States or Swedish Ambassador Gunnar V. Jarring. Riad, who is in New York, was not present for the speech.

Soviet Defector Identified
London — Oleg Lyalin was identified by the British Foreign Office as the Soviet KGB agent who defected early last month and gave the British evidence that triggered the expulsion of 105 Soviet officials. (More on Page 12.)

Senate Votes For Pullout
Washington — The Senate adopted an amendment offered by majority leader Mike Mansfield calling for the total withdrawal of American forces from Indochina within six months, provided all American prisoners are released. (More on Page 1.)

88 Freeze Violations Found
New York — The Internal Revenue Service said 88 violations of the wage-price freeze were found during 1,728 spot checks made by federal agents. An IRS spokesman said that in 47 of the 88 cases, the individual or company voluntarily complied with the freeze when informed of the violation. The remaining cases were turned over to the Office of Emergency Preparedness for action.

Earmarked College Aid Ok'd
Washington — Legislation that would provide earmarked federal grants for every college and university in the country was approved by the House Education and Labor Committee. The bill would base grants on the number of students in each school and would continue present student aid programs for five more years.

Bacon Arrest Illegal
San Francisco — The arrest of Leslie Bacon as a material witness to force her to testify about the bombing of the Capitol was declared

illegal by a federal appeals court. (More on Page 12.)

Democratic Formula Overturned
Washington — A U.S. appeals court overturned a formula for allocating Democratic convention delegates to give more power to the larger states. (More on Page 12.)

Attica Investigators Named
New York — Five judges, who were selected by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and legislative leaders, named a nine-member commission to conduct an investigation of the Attica prison uprising. The panel will be headed by Robert B. McKay, dean of the New York University Law School, and will also include a former convict and a criminology student.

Reserve Champ Steer's Sale Price New Record

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Omaha — A new all time record price for the reserve champion market steer and a near record price for the grand champion 4-H market steer highlighted the beef auction at the 1971 Ak-Sar-Ben Livestock Show Thursday.

The 1,040 pound grand champion, the first straight bred steer to win top honors in three years and the lightest grand champion since 1967, brought owner Bill Henderson Jr. of Alliance $7,280 or a price of $7 per pound.

The buyers of the steer were Mr. and Mrs. Yano Caniglia, operators of Mister C's steak house in Omaha. The Caniglia's also purchased last year's grand champion for $6.35 per pound.

The all-time record price $10 was paid by Ross' Steak House for an Angus steer shown by Linda Mitchell of Black Hawk County, Iowa, in 1965.

A new record price of $3.95 a pound was paid for the reserve grand champion by Sam Marvin and Dean Johnson, owners of Arby's Roast Beef, which operates two restaurants in Omaha and one in Lincoln.

The 1,140 pound Charolais-Angus cross steer yielded owner Rick Hartman of Wood River a total of $4,503 in the sale plus a check for $500 from the American International Charolais Association for a grand total of $5,003.

Anthony Fucinaro, operator of Anthony's restaurant and lounge and Domenico's restaurant and lounge in Omaha, purchased the champion heifer for the third consecutive year. This year's price of $2.85 was below last year's record of $3.50 paid for a heavier 1,080 pound heifer. The total price of $2,707.50 went to Tony Hullinger of Stromsburg, owner of the 950 pound Charolais-Angus cross named Princess Steak.

Fucinaro promptly turned over the No. 1 heifer to the nation's No. 1 Cornhusker football team. This is the third consecutive year that Fucinaro has presented the team with the champion.

The reserve champion heifer a Hereford shown by Sandra Schjoldt of Blair, sold for 65c a pound to the U.S. Checkbook Company of Omaha, owned by former State Sen. Clifton Batchelder. The 1,020 pound Pollyanna brought her owner $663.

The champion shorthorn steer weighing 1,085 pounds brought owner Marcia Schlake of Firth $1.10 from Brandeis Food Management, while the reserve shorthorn weighing 1,055 pounds was priced at 70c a pound by Northern Natural Gas Company of Omaha for owner John Downey of Pierson, Iowa.

The 1,079 pound champion Angus shown by Kurt Kleinschmidt of Grafton was sold to Educator's Security Insurance Company of Lincoln for $1.00 per pound. The 900 pound reserve champion Angus brought owner Lynette Jauert of Laverne, Minn., 65c per pound from Johnny's Cafe in Omaha.

The reserve champion Hereford owned by David Sweeney of Runnells, Iowa, brought 90c per pound from the Cork and Cleaver, an Omaha restaurant.

The reserve champion crossbred weighing 1,145 pounds brought owner Jeff Kasperbauer of Manning, Iowa, 74c a pound from the New Tower restaurant in Omaha.

The grand champion cattle, sheep and swine and the reserve champions will remain on display until the final rodeo performance Saturday night.

Fire Chief Vernon Van Scoy Jr. said Capt. Gerald Landon suffered a broken arm when he fell through a floor and firefighter James Maly needed treatment because debris got into his eye. Both were treated and released at a local hospital.

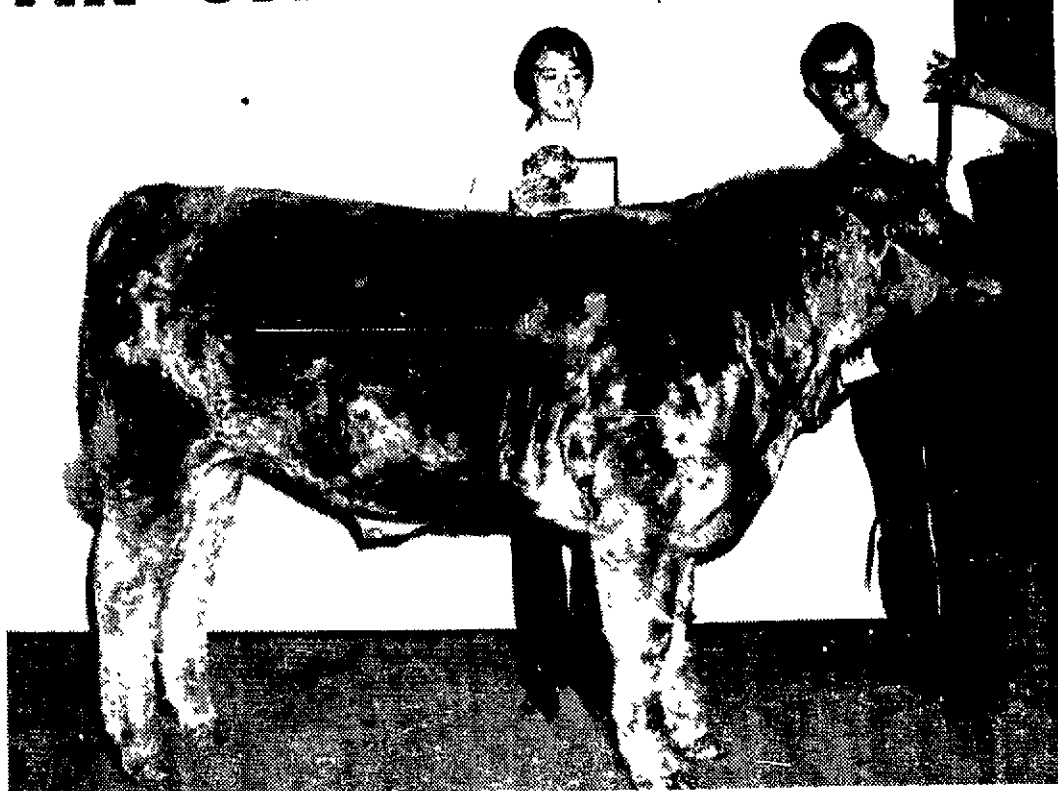

Brady Reservoir Drowning Site

Brady — Mrs. Mae Stauffer, 72, of Parnam drowned in Jeffery Reservoir south of Brady Wednesday.

Lincoln County Atty. Walter Mulliken said Mrs. Stauffer was on a floating dock when her husband George went to a cabin. Mulliken said Stauffer found her body in the water when he returned soon after.

Mulliken said Stauffer told him she had been under a doctor's care for dizziness.

Charges Galore Face Young Driver

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — A 17-year-old Mead, Neb., youth was charged with assault to commit murder Thursday after he took an ambulance without his father's permission, allegedly struck a car in Omaha and threatened a Council Bluffs police officer with a gun.

Omaha and Bluffs police and the boy's father gave this account of the incident:

Thomas L. Shires had been assisting his father in combining soybeans on their farm near Mead Wednesday. The father, Thomas M. Shires, also runs the Jet Line ambulance service in the community.

The elder Shires said the youth took the ambulance, and a rifle and four pistols when the father uses for target shooting. All the weapons were loaded.

About 5:35 p.m., Mrs. Patti Cacioppo, 27, of Omaha told police she was driving east on Dodge Street when an ambulance began "tail-gating" her small foreign car. She said the ambulance driver turned on a siren and she pulled over to let it pass.

Police said the ambulance rammed the rear of the auto and flipped the car on its top, then continued east without stopping.

Mrs. Cacioppo and her three young daughters were not injured.

Later in the afternoon, Council Bluffs Patrolman Bernard Kremer said he was driving off-duty and in civilian clothes when he observed an ambulance being "driven erratically." Kremer said he followed the vehicle until it stopped. The patrolman said he walked up to the ambulance and showed the driver his badge, asking for the driver's registration.

The driver produced his registration, but also pointed a pistol at Kremer and ordered him to back away. Kremer said, Kremer said the youth ran, but the patrolman caught a youth, later identified as Shires, after a chase.

Municipal Judge Allen Ardell fined the youth a total of $74 on traffic charges of running a red light, no driver's license, illegal use of a flashing red light and illegal use of a siren.

Young Shires was turned over to Juvenile Court and was ordered held in custody until a hearing next Wednesday on the assault charge.

Omaha police have issued tickets to the youth for following too closely, unauthorized use of a siren, leaving the scene of a collision and failure to produce a Nebraska driver's license.

County Attorney Not Planning Charges Against York Youths

York (AP) — No charges will be filed against 33 York-area youths arrested early Saturday at a party at the State Reformatory for Women, York County Atty. Joseph McCluskey said Thursday.

The party was held at the home of former superintendent of the institution, Mrs. Barbara Bashore, who submitted her resignation Tuesday as a result of the incident.

McCluskey said, "There were so many involved that authorities couldn't tell which kids were consuming alcohol or were in possession. There really doesn't seem to be enough evidence there for a formal criminal charge."

He said a thorough investigation of the entire incident had been conducted and some beer was found in their possession but it could not actually be determined in whose possession.

"With 33 kids it's impossible to be fair," McCluskey said. "If you don't see them you can't prove who was or wasn't drinking. You have to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt and that can't be determined."

McCluskey said they were technically invited so the possibility of trespassing on state grounds was ruled out.

York (UPI) — John C. Kenefick, 49, Omaha, has been elected president of the Union Pacific Railroad, it was announced Thursday.

The election was announced by Frank E. Barnett, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific Corp. and the railroad.

Kenefick will replace Edd Bailey, who retired Thursday. Bailey will continue as a director of Union Pacific Railroad Co. and the parent Union Pacific Corp.

Kenefick has been chief executive officer of Union Pacific's Transportation Division since

Hearing Testimony Favorable For Educational Service Unit

Beatrice (AP) — Witnesses gave favorable testimony Thursday in behalf of educational service units in southeast Nebraska and their worth to the state school network at a public hearing in Beatrice.

The hearing, one of several being conducted by the Legislative Council Committee on Education, was designed to provide an evaluation of the units established in 1965 by the legislature.

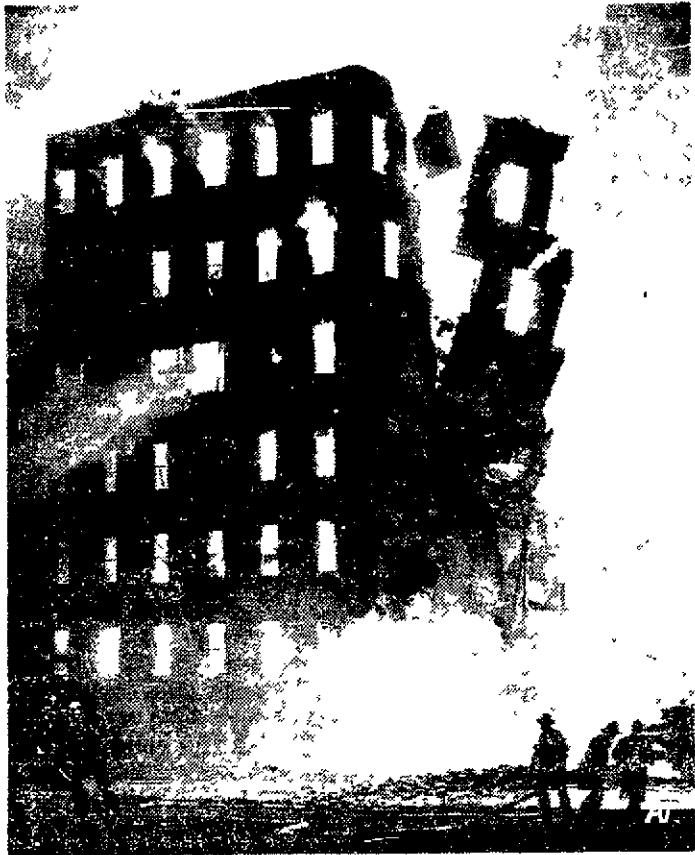

Ivan Stern, administrator of ESU 5, headquartered in Beatrice and serving Gage, Jefferson and Thayer counties, outlined an impressive list of services provided by the unit, including programs for the educable and trainable mentally retarded, individual assessment of students with learning disabilities, speech therapies and nursing.

He also described cooperative purchasing and electronic maintenance program and a film library where the individual schools pool their funds to increase quantity and quality of services and materials.

Sen. David Stahmer of Omaha, one of five committee members present, questioned Stern as to how he could be sure each school received its fair share of services.

Although some schools can provide some of their own services and some schools do not need all of the services, Stern said there seems to be no great dissatisfaction concerning the distribution of such services.

FIREMEN . . . battle second four-alarm fire in Omaha's history at Swift plant.

Arson Suspected In Blazes Ravaging Vacant Swift Plant

Omaha (AP) — The head of the Dore Wrecking Co. said Thursday that the fires which ravaged the old Swift plant Wednesday night and Thursday were the latest in a series of incidents which have plagued the company in its demolition of the buildings.

Arthur Dore said the incidents include shooting out of windows of an office, equipment damage from bullets, and fires.

Job Foreman John Courtney said because of threats, some workers have been carrying pistols for protection. "This is like the wild west," Courtney said.

Fireman battled at least four separate fires which were discovered late Wednesday night at the site of the old plant, which is being cleared for development of the South Omaha Industrial Park. Two firemen were injured.

Public Safety Director Al Pattavina said at least one of the fires was "definitely set" and arson is suspected in the three others.

Wednesday's fires brought four alarms and the blaze was not declared under control until 10:08 a.m. Thursday. Officials said firemen would remain at the scene for 24 hours.

Assistant Fire Chief James Pattavina said about one-third of Omaha's fire-fighting force helped fight the blaze. He said from 105 to 110 men were involved.

pion, the first straight bred steer to win top honors in three years and the lightest grand champion since 1967, brought owner Bill Henderson Jr. of Alliance $7,280 or a price of $7 per pound.

The buyers of the steer were Mr. and Mrs. Yano Caniglia, operators of Mister C's steak house in Omaha. The Caniglias also purchased last year's grand champion for $6.35 per pound.

The all-time record price $10 was paid by Ross' Steak House for an Angus steer shown by Linda Mitchell of Black Hawk County, Iowa, in 1965.

A new record price of $3.95 a pound was paid for the reserve grand champion by Sam Marvin and Dean Johnson, owners of Arby's Roast Beef, which operates two restaurants in Omaha and one in Lincoln.

The 1,140 pound Charolais-Angus cross steer yielded owner Rick Hartman of Wood River a total of $4,503 in the sale plus a check for $500 from the American International Charolais Association for a grand total of $5,003.

Anthony Fucinaro, operator of Anthony's restaurant and lounge and Domenico's restaurant and lounge in Omaha, purchased the champion heifer for the third consecutive year. This year's price of $2.85 was below last year's record of $3.50 paid for a heavier 1,080 pound heifer. The total price of $2,707.50 went to Tony Hullinger of Stromsburg, owner of the 950 pound Charolais-Angus cross named Princess Steak.

Fucinaro promptly turned over the No. 1 heifer to the nation's No. 1 Cornhusker football team. This is the third consecutive year that Fucinaro has presented the team with the champion.

The reserve champion heifer, a Hereford shown by Sondra Schjodt of Blair, sold for 65c a pound to the U.S. Checkbook Company of Omaha, owned by former State Sen. Clifton Batchelder. The 1,020 pound Pollyanna brought her owner $663.

The champion shorthorn steer weighing 1,065 pounds brought owner Marcia Schlake of Firth $1.10 from Brandeis Food Management, while the reserve shorthorn weighing 1,055 pounds was priced at 70c a pound by Northern Natural Gas Company of Omaha for owner John Downey of Pierson, Iowa.

The 1,079 pound champion Angus shown by Kurt Kleinschmidt of Grafton was sold to Educator's Security Insurance Company of Lincoln for $1.00 per pound. The 900 pound reserve champion Angus brought owner Lynette Jauert of Laverne, Minn., 65c per pound from Johnny's Cafe in Omaha.

The reserve champion Hereford owned by David Sweeney of Runnells, Iowa, brought 90c per pound from the Cork and Cleaver, an Omaha restaurant.

The reserve champion crossbred weighing 1,145 pounds brought owner Jeff Kasperbauer of Manning, Iowa, 74c a pound from the New Tower restaurant in Omaha.

The grand champion cattle, sheep and swine and the reserve champions will remain on display until the final rodeo performance Saturday night.

Fire Chief Vernon Van Scoy Jr. said Capt. Gerald Landon suffered a broken arm when he fell through a floor and firefighter James Maly needed treatment because debris got into his eye. Both were treated and released at a local hospital.

Council Bluffs, Iowa (P) — A 17-year-old Mead, Neb., youth was charged with assault to commit murder Thursday after he took an ambulance without his father's permission, allegedly struck a car in Omaha and threatened a Council Bluffs police officer with a gun.

Omaha and Bluffs police and the boy's father gave this account of the incident:

County Attorney Not Planning Charges Against York Youths

York (P) — No charges will be filed against 33 York-area youths arrested early Saturday at a party at the State Reformatory for Women, York County Atty. Joseph McCluskey said Thursday.

The party was held at the home of former superintendent of the institution, Mrs. Barbara Bashore, who submitted her resignation Tuesday as a result of the incident.

McCluskey said, "There were so many involved that authorities couldn't tell which kids were consuming alcohol or were in possession. There really doesn't seem to be enough evidence there for a formal criminal charge."

He said a thorough investigation of the entire incident had been conducted and some beer was found in their possession but it could not actually be determined in whose possession.

"With 33 kids it's impossible to be fair," McCluskey said. "If you don't see them you can't prove who was or wasn't drinking. You have to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt and that can't be determined."

McCluskey said they were technically invited so the possibility of trespassing on state grounds was ruled out.

Exon Says Federal Funds Needed To Avert Welfare Cuts

By DON BEMAN
United Press International
Gov. J. J. Exon said Thursday unless Congress provides additional welfare money to the state within months, Nebraska would be faced with further cutbacks in its aid programs.

Exon, in an interview, said during the past week he has been discussing the matter with Washington officials.

Most politicians had pinned hopes of solving welfare financing problems on a massive welfare reform program, the governor noted, but added now it appears August of 1973 would be the earliest such a program could be launched.

Congressional action on welfare reform, he said, along with revenue sharing, has been temporarily pushed aside by the current move to solve the nation's economic problems.

Welfare Deficit

However, the governor said, unless something is done soon in the form of increased aid to the states, Nebraska would be faced with a welfare deficit.

He noted the state has already "ratably reduced" aid to dependent children (ADC) payments in an attempt to stave off a deficit in the welfare program, and said similar action would be taken to head off any future deficits.

"Nebraska is facing another fantastic increase in welfare appropriations unless we take further and even more drastic cuts in some of our welfare programs," he said, "or in the alternative the federal government provide financial relief."

The state would not be faced with having to make a decision on whether to cut payments in the next few weeks, Exon said, "but we're talking about next year."

Immediate Relief
Meanwhile, the governor said, the American Public Welfare Association has come up with a proposal which would provide immediate relief until a massive welfare reform could be achieved.

"And I am supporting this," Exon said.

Under the association proposal, adopted at its national meeting last week, state welfare funds would be increased immediately by 20%, to remain in effect until a complete welfare reform program has been adopted.

The financial "crunch" in welfare programs, the governor said, has resulted from federal control of state welfare.

Increasing Needs
"If the federal government is going to dictate how much the states must spend," he said, "then they must also provide for the fantastically increasing needs."

Exon said he has been seeking support from other governors for the immediate increase proposal. He also said the Nebraska congressional delegation has been notified of his position.

They have not given a firm endorsement to the proposal, however, the governor said, but he added "I am very pleased with their general attitude."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Friday

Leo wants attention; this is especially true of students born under this zodiacal sign. A perceptive teacher will give Leo just a little extra time. If you flatter a Leo, you may be paving the way for a long friendship. Leo harmonizes with Libra, Gemini, Sagittarius and Aries. Leo does very few things that are not complicated from cooking to romance, it is all or nothing. Some famous persons born under this zodiacal sign include Leo Durocher, Rudy Vallee and Mae West.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may want to socialize, associate may want to be quiet. Be creative. You face somewhat of a dilemma. Key is to maintain sense of humor. Refuse to be frightened by what appears mysterious. Laughter can be vital tonic.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You get chance to prove abilities and cement friendship. Lunar position coincides with helping hand from one in authority. You don't know all answers. But some puzzle pieces now are falling into place.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Join forces with Taurus individual. Your ambitions can be fulfilled. Know this, be confident. Show professional superior you have stuff of success. Outline plan, proposal. You will get attention.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect now coincides with journey, added knowledge, gain through intellectual pursuits. Be gentle in dealing with family member. Domestic quandary will be clearing in your favor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Perceive hidden meanings. Realize some persons cannot say what they think. Read between lines. Detect subtle nuances. Avoid self-deception where finances enter picture. Patience now is a requisite.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Obtain hint from Leo message. Avoid tendency to base actions on wishful thinking. Accent now is on marriage, partnerships, legal activities. Be wary in granting interviews. Some want to misquote you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Spotlight on work, health, basic issues. Key is to graphically illustrate best-selling points. Get rid of burden not rightly your own. Some are only too willing to take advantage of you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on change, travel, greater self-expression. Relations with young persons are intensified. Success shown through creative endeavors. Break out of emotional shell. Tell feelings to member of opposite sex.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't neglect duties at home base. Going too far afield would be error. Grass is not greener elsewhere. Older family member plays prominent role. Use time constructively. Careful approach with major point.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Obstruction to progress can be removed. Key is to be versatile. Be familiar with alternatives. There is more than one method. Act as if you know it. Neighbor, relative acts in confused manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Money is spotlighted. What you left was out-of-reach becomes available. Steady approach is necessary. Maintain balance. Avoid extremes. Protect your interests. No false modesty. Be specific, confident.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lunar cycle high; you are apt to get what you request. Be sure desires are based on actual needs. Follow through; take initiative. New contacts prove fruitful. Don't hide light. Be a self-starter.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are considered dynamic or original thinker. You do best when working for yourself. You are not so good at following organized patterns. If single, contact made earlier in year could lead to marriage.

Exon Says Federal Funds Needed To Avert Welfare Cuts

By DON BEMAN
United Press International
Gov. J. J. Exon said Thursday unless Congress provides additional welfare money to the state within months, Nebraska would be faced with further cutbacks in its aid programs.

Exon, in an interview, said during the past week he has been discussing the matter with Washington officials.
Most politicians had pinned hopes of solving welfare financing problems on a massive welfare reform program, the governor noted, but added now it appears August of 1973 would be the earliest such a program could be launched.

Congressional action on welfare reform, he said, along with revenue sharing, has been temporarily pushed aside by the current move to solve the nation's economic problems.

Welfare Deficit
However, the governor said, unless something is done soon in the form of increased aid to the states, Nebraska would be faced with a welfare deficit.
He noted the state has already "ratably reduced" aid to dependent children (ADC) payments in an attempt to stave off a deficit in the welfare program, and said similar action would be taken to head off any future deficits.

Immediate Relief
Meanwhile, the governor said, the American Public Welfare Association has come up with a proposal which would provide immediate relief until a massive welfare reform could be achieved.
"And I am supporting this," Exon said.
Under the association proposal, adopted at its national meeting last week, state welfare funds would be increased immediately by 20%, to remain in effect until a complete welfare reform program has been adopted.

The financial "crunch" in welfare programs, the governor said, has resulted from federal control of state welfare.

Increasing Needs
"If the federal government is going to dictate how much the states must spend," he said, "then they must also provide for the fantastically increasing needs."
Exon said he has been seeking support from other governors for the immediate increase proposal. He also said the Nebraska congressional delegation has been notified of his position.

They have not given a firm endorsement to the proposal, however, the governor said, but he added "I am very pleased with their general attitude."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Friday

Leo wants attention: this is especially true of students born under this zodiacal sign. A perceptive teacher will give Leo just a little extra time. If you flatter a Leo, you may be paying the way for a long friendship. Leo harmonizes with Libra, Gemini, Sagittarius and Aries. Leo does very few things that are not complicated from cooking to romance, it is all or nothing. Some famous persons born under this zodiacal sign include Leo Durocher, Rudy Vallee and Mae West.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may want to socialize, associate may want to be quiet, secretive. You face somewhat of a dilemma. Key is to maintain sense of humor. Refuse to be frightened by what appears mysterious. Laughter can be vital tonic.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You get chance to prove abilities and cement friendship. Lunar position coincides with helping hand from one in authority. You don't know all answers. But some puzzle pieces now are falling into place.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Join forces with Taurus individual. Your ambitions can be fulfilled. Know this: be confident. Show professional superior you have stuff of success. Outline plan, proposal. You will get attention.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Good lunar aspect now coincides with journey, added knowledge, gain through intellectual pursuits. Be gentle in dealing with family member. Domestic quarrel may well boomarang in your favor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Perceive hidden meanings. Realize some persons cannot say what they think. Read between lines. Detect subtle nuances. Avoid self-deception where finances enter picture. Patience now is a requisite.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Obtain hint from Leo message. Avoid tendency to base actions on wishful thinking. Accent now is on marriage, partnerships, legal activities. Be wary in granting interviews. Some want to misquote you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Spotlight on work, health, basic issues. Key is to gracefully illustrate best-selling points. Get rid of burden not rightly your own. Some are only too willing to take advantage of you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on change, travel, greater self-expression. Relations with young persons are intensified. Success shown through creative endeavors. Break out of emotional shell. Tell feelings to member of opposite sex.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't neglect duties at home base. Going too far afield would be error. Grass is not greener elsewhere. Older family member plays prominent role. Use time constructively. Careful approach wins major point.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Obstruction to progress can be removed. Key is to be versatile. Be familiar with alternatives. There is more than one method. Act as if you know it. Neighbor, relative acts in confused manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Money is spotlighted. What you felt was out-of-reach becomes available. Steady approach is necessary. Maintain balance. Avoid extremes. Protect your interests. No false modesty. Be specific, content.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lunar cycle high; you are apt to get what you request. Be sure desires are based on actual needs. Follow through. Take initiative. New contacts prove fruitful. Don't hide light. Be a self-starter.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are considered dynamic, or original thinker. You do best when working for yourself. You are not so good at following organized patterns. If single, contact made earlier in year could lead to marriage. To find out who's lucky for you in money and love, order Sidney Omarr's booklet, "Secrets for Men and Women." 76 Misdemeanors Handled By Justice, Inc., Attorneys Attorneys working free of charge for Justice, Inc., handled 76 misdemeanor cases for indigents between May 1970 (when the present referral system was initiated), and Aug. 31, 1971.

A report made available this week said the "case load is definitely increasing. During the last four months, it was four times what it was for the same period a year ago."

Since the incorporation date, Nov. 20, 1969, Justice Inc. has spent about $1,300, all of which was donated.

The purpose of Justice Inc. is to provide legal services for indigents accused of misdemeanors.

Prior to its establishment, free legal service was available only to persons accused of felonies or involved in civil cases. Felony cases are handled by the public defender or a court-appointed attorney and civil cases are handled by the Lincoln Legal Service.

Justice, Inc. provides aid if the income of the individual is below the guidelines used by the OEO.

Broad Child Care Program Passed

Washington (UPI) — The House Thursday approved a sweeping program of care and development for children of working mothers, but in response to administration economy pleas sharply lowered the eligibility level for families to receive the services free.

Concluding work on a two-year, $5 billion plus authorization bill for antipoverty projects of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), the House also approved transfer of the controversial program of free legal services for the poor from OEO to a private corporation.

Dividing largely along party lines, the House at first tentatively approved the child care and development program with a ceiling of $6,960 an annual income for a family to receive the services free.

Republicans pointing to administration estimates the cost could reach $20 billion a year, succeeded after several tries in persuading the House to reduce the eligibility level to $4,300. The program then was nailed into the OEO bill by a vote of 186 to 133, and the entire package was approved 251 to 115.

The child care plan would authorize 80% federal matching grants to private, public and nonprofit groups to construct, equip and staff day care centers offering comprehensive educational, nutritional and health services to pre-school age children.

Children from families with incomes of $4,300 a year or therefore takes more of a chance of being seen."

The report also said that, too often, the poor person is forced to stay in jail until his trial because of his inability to post bond. When a person is arrested, it becomes, in effect, an additional crime to be poor," it said.

Justice Inc. proposes that bail never be larger than the probable fine for the offense and that the courts system find a way for poor people to get bail money.

lower could attend the centers free of charge. Youngsters from families above that income level would pay graduated fees that increased as the income went up. The same feature was in the Senate-passed OEO bill.

The Senate bill would do nothing to create additional day care centers but provide only that mothers who work but still earn only $4,300 a year could send their children to available day care centers with the government picking up the cost.

Rep. Duward G. Hall R. Mo., said the child care program is only another step toward socialization of our nation.

But Rep. Edith Green D. Ore., said, "This is not a takeover. This is quite different. It gives children of working mothers a place to go where somebody does care and where their nutritional and health needs and their educational needs are met."

POLLY WANTS A FEATHER

This fine, featherless friend is a three-inch, three-ounce, 3-year-old dwarf parrot named Leland. When Leland for no apparent reason began plucking out his own feathers, owner Donald Hunt of Kingston took him to a veterinarian who told Hunt that Leland was just plain bored. All the parrot needs, the vet said, is companionship and his feathers will return within six months.

Berry Wins Suit Against Network

Pierre, S. D. (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury Thursday found that the National Broadcasting Co. invaded the privacy of South Dakota rancher Baxter Berry and awarded him damages of $25,000.

Berry had filed suit against the network for $1 million alleging a segment of NBC's television program "First Tuesday" invaded his privacy and held him up to public ridicule and contempt.

The eight-woman, four-man jury deliberated for slightly more than six and one-half hours before reaching its verdict.

The jury interrupted its deliberations once after four hours of discussion to ask Judge Fred Nichol to repeat one section of his instructions.

Witnesses for NBC admitted they had become aware of a few factual errors in the "First Tuesday" segment entitled "Between Two Rivers" broadcast Dec. 2, 1969.

But they testified that at the time it was broadcast they believed the segment was free of any errors. They denied they held any malice toward Berry.

NBC attorneys had claimed that demonstration of error, or even of negligence, was not enough to find the network liable. They said the U.S. Supreme Court had established that actual malice must be demonstrated.

Berry's attorneys described the rancher as a quiet, shy and honorable man who was a "miserable object" by the "First Tuesday" segment.

They said "Between Two Rivers" destroyed everything Berry had built up in 63 years of exemplary living.

"The question is whether the news media is above the law," said Sam Master, one of Berry's lawyers. If they are, there is no hope for the type of government we know today," he said in final arguments.

Berry, son of one-time South Dakota Gov. Tom Berry, was acquitted by an all-white circuit court jury Sept. 25, 1969, of charges he murdered an Indian on his ranch March 21, 1969. Berry claimed he shot Norman Little Brave in self defense.

Berry's attorneys alleged "Between Two Rivers" insinuated Berry was guilty, but acquitted because he was a wealthy, influential white man who shot an Indian.

An appeal by NBC to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals appears likely.

Clinton Residents Continue Efforts To Keep Library

Approximately 20 people from the Clinton area gathered Thursday night at the Northeast Library to discuss the possibility of keeping the library open.

Charles Dalrymple, director of the Lincoln City Libraries, said the decision to close the library was based on the antiquity of the building, the inflexibility of its architecture and the antiquity of its design.

Dalrymple said the board is committed to library service for the Clinton community but added that there are other areas and communities which have very limited or even no library service at all.

He said the building has no auditorium or adequate meeting space and that a multi-purpose building would be more the kind of facility the community needs and could use.

The people told Dalrymple that a new facility would be nice but they felt it is always better to "keep what you've got" instead of accepting promises for the future.

The group chose a committee to meet with a group from the Library Board and are scheduled to report their findings Oct. 28th.

Three More Inmates To Be Released Under Bad Check Law

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Three penal complex inmates will be paroled shortly bringing the total to seven inmates released under the state's revised "bad-check" law, and the possibility of parole also exists currently for 12 more inmates, according to John B. Greenholtz, Parole Administration chairman.

The paroles were made possible by a 1971 law which changed the dividing line between misdemeanors and felonies from $35 to $75. LB427 sponsored by Scottsbluff Sen. Terry Crapenter and Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, provides that first offenders issuing insufficient or no-fund checks for less than $75 be fined and imprisoned no more than six months in the county jail.

However, Greenholtz said it should be noted that the law applies only to insufficient and no-fund checks and does not cover forgeries or credit cards.

The old statute had provisions for a fine and imprisonment in the penal complex of not less than one year nor more than ten.

Greenholtz said eligible inmates convicted under the old law are being paroled on the basis of the retroactive intent of DeCamp's resolution.

The resolution reads, "the board shall give special study to this case toward giving retroactive effect to LB427."

But so far no sentences have been commuted. "We (the Parole Administration) can't commute the sentences of the men convicted under the old law," Greenholtz said, "however, we have submitted a list of eligible inmates to the Pardons Board."

Not Seen Fit
"So far the Pardons Boards has not seen fit to commute any sentences due to prior records, detainees and the like."

"We cannot circumvent the court's intention," he said, "Parole and pardons are earned privileges, not rights."

The new law has raised the hopes of about 200 "bad-check" convicts and has caused some problems, Greenholtz said.

A particular problem, he noted, has arisen regarding the parole of these first offenders.

In many instances, he said, an investigation reveals that the first offender wrote a number of insufficient or no-fund checks but was charged and convicted of only one.

Wasn't Only One

"One Douglas County man who is currently being considered for parole," he said, "was sentenced for writing one $40 check that was bad. However, after looking into his record we found that it wasn't the only one."

"He had written a total of 64 bad checks worth $1,656.44, but he was charged and sentenced for only the $40 check."

Greenholtz said in spite of the fact that the man is eligible for parole as a first offender, the Parole Board's decision is effected by whether or not he is a multiple offender.

In paroling a "compulsive" offender, Greenholtz said, the likelihood is great that he will soon be back in prison on the same charge.

Inflammatory Rhetoric Can't Solve School Differences, NCSA Says

The Nebraska Council of School Administrators said Thursday the "adjudication of the differences between public and private schools cannot be accomplished with inflammatory rhetoric."

In its first public statement on the controversy over administration of federal Title I funds, the NCSA said:

"In the past several weeks, severe attacks have been made on the (Nebraska) commissioner of education, Cecil Stanley, and other school administrators over the administration of Elementary and Secondary Act — Title I funds."

"The executive board of the Nebraska Council of School Administrators deplors such personal abuses," the prepared statement said.

Apparent Conflict

The NCSA said "there is an apparent conflict between the Nebraska Constitution and many of the options offered by the federal government for administering Title I funds."

"The NCSA believes that a rational solution to this problem can be found," it said.

The association pledged its support to Stanley and "others who are seeking an answer to the dilemma" and added it "recognizes the importance of the Title I program for all disadvantaged children and it calls upon Nebraskans to work cooperatively and positively to provide the services of Title I for all children."

Statement OK'd

The statement was authored by Thomas Keating, chairman of the NCSA executive board and superintendent of schools in Hastings. The executive board approved the statement this week.

Other members of the board are Ralph Thorpe of Lincoln, vice chairman; Jean Buck of Kearney, secretary and Paul Wieckhorst of Kearney, treasurer.

The NCSA is an organization representing five associations of school administrators.

Footlights & Canvas

By PHYLLIS WOOLLEN

Good morning:

It is not unusual to associate the month of October with a golden array of symbolism—such as candied apples and apple cider, or witches and goblins on Halloween night, or the beautiful transition of the trees with their colorful garb.

As we enter October, we also sense that the area of theatre arts has begun to steadily accelerate its pace for the 'on' season in Lincoln.

While we already have covered many of the season's repertoires in past columns, there seems to be no end to the planning of new events. This week we learn of the projected season of the Enid Miller Theatre at Nebraska Wesleyan University. The first major production of the season will be Arthur Miller's classic drama, "Death of a Salesman," which will open October 14 and run through the 17.

Husband and wife, Keith and Susann Jacobshagen, have teamed their efforts and talents in an art exhibit at First Plymouth Congregational Church. Mr. Jacobshagen, a graduate of Kansas City Art Institute with an MFA from the University of Kansas, is now assistant professor of art at the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Jacobshagen is a graduate of the University of Kansas with a masters degree from the University of Nebraska. You'll find the works most unusual and interesting. The exhibit in Pilgrim Hall is open through the end of October.

OOPS! Seems our glasses were a bit nearsighted last week. In speaking of children's theatre in Lincoln, we disconcertedly spoke of a past drought. There have, indeed, been some wonderful efforts in the past, and in praising the oncoming efforts of TAFY and Three Plays For Lincoln children, it was not our intention to ruffle feathers of such commendable efforts as put forth by the Children's Zoo, Pinewood Bowl, the University of Nebraska, City Recreation Department, Community Playhouse, Junior League or any others that a brief glance fails to recall. While we continue to heartily endorse present efforts, we stand corrected on our omission.

Now, for your further entertainment:

AS IT IS . . . A photograph does not lie, it captures the fleeting moments of man and nature, and can be utilized to aid in painting.

Thus, the photographs of Thomas Eakins will be of special interest as they open on exhibit at Sheldon Art Gallery on Tuesday, Oct. 5.

THAT OLD MAGIC LAMP . . . will delight the eyes and ears of every child as they see the first of three plays for children, "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," to be held Saturday, Oct. 9 at East High Auditorium. Sponsored by the Delta Delta Delta Alumnae Association for the benefit of the Children's Zoo, the three plays will be presented by the National Children's Theatre Association. Curtain time is 1 o'clock, and tickets may be purchased at the door.

THE RISE OF BRONZE . . . twenty-one bronze sculptures will adorn the Koenig Art Gallery of Concordia Teachers College in Seward, beginning Sunday, Oct. 3. Artist Paul Gradlund is said to trace his artistic heritage back through the figurative sculptors in Renaissance Italy. The show will be on exhibit through Oct. 31.

A LAUGH A MINUTE . . . or so we hear, in Woody Allen's Comedy, "Don't Drink The Water," which will open at the Lincoln Community Playhouse tomorrow evening. We hear that lead actor and actress, George Carpenter and Jan Healey, are keeping the cast in stitches through oh so many rehearsals. Sounds like it might well be worth a 'look-see.' Shows run weekends through the end of October.

CURTAIN CALL . . . CENGAS EXHIBIT . . . opening Oct. 4, works by Laurine Kimmel and Lillian Noble, both of Nebraska City.

. . . GAS LIGHT VAUDEVILLE REVIEW . . . a rollicking evening of melodrama fun at the Gas Light Theatre at 9 o'clock on Friday and Saturday.

TEST YOUR PLAY

You are declarer with the West hand at Seven Notrump. North leads the jack of hearts, which you win with the queen, South following low. How would you play the hand?

♠AKQ2	N	♠6543
♥32	W	♥AKQ
♦AKQ3	E	♦2
♣AKQ	S	♣65432

If either the spades or the clubs are divided 3-2, there are 13 obvious tricks, so you start by assuming that both suits are divided unfavorably — that is, 4-1 or 5-0.

The contract cannot be defeated — no matter how the cards are divided — if you play the hand properly. To make the grand slam you may have to execute a squeeze, but to accomplish it you must be extremely careful to cash your tricks in the right order.

You start by cashing the A-K of spades and A-K of clubs. When you do, you discover (1) that one opponent has both suits guarded, or (2) that each opponent has one suit guarded.

In case No. 1, the squeeze is executed by simply cashing the A-K-Q of diamonds, queen of clubs and A-K of hearts, ending in dummy. As these cards are cashed, you discard a diamond from your hand and a spade and a club from dummy. As a result, this is the end position:

♠A2	N	♠6
♥—	W	♥—
♦—	E	♦6
♣—	S	♣6

The opponent with both black suits guarded is down to two cards also, and he finds it impossible to keep two spades and a club when he discards on the last heart lead from dummy. He must relinquish a club or a spade, and either discard is fatal.

In case No. 2, you cash both black queens, followed by the ♠—	N	♠6

♥AKQ3	W	♥—
♦—	E	♦2
♣—	S	♣65

A-K of hearts. As a result, this is the end position:

By now the squeeze (called a double squeeze because both opponents feel the pinch) has already been effected. The opponent with the spade guard could not keep more than three diamonds, and the opponent with the club guard likewise could not keep more than three diamonds. The A-K-Q of diamonds therefore win the last four tricks.

Of course, had either opponent relinquished his guard in either black suit, you would have discarded the three diamonds on the established trick in dummy before cashing the A-K-Q of diamonds.

MISS GLENDA CANTRELL

Announcement is made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Mack Cantrell of Bellevue of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Glenda Cantrell, to Tom Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Adams.

Plans are being made for a November wedding which will take place in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Miss Cantrell is presently careering with Proctor & Gamble in Cincinnati.

Mr. Adams, who was graduated from the University of Nebraska, is also associated with Proctor & Gamble in Cincinnati. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

age has nothing to do with owning a mink

If you're over 18 you're ready for it. If you're over 30 you deserve it. Those little excuses and hang-ups you have about owning a mink are outdated because fur has no limits day or night. Mr. Donald Bernstein will be at H-S this Friday and Saturday, October 1st and 2nd, to present this Fall's John Ross Originals in Mink. The collection includes many styles and lengths in capes, coats, stoles and jackets, and special designs by Da Vinci and Chester Weinberg. And no doubt there'll be a mink just for you. We hope you'll be in for the John Ross Showing Friday and Saturday. See you then!

Our Town

Footlights & Canvas

By PHYLLIS WOOLLEN

Good morning:

It is not unusual to associate the month of October with a golden array of symbolism—such as candied apples and apple cider, or witches and goblins on Halloween night, or the beautiful transition of the trees with their colorful garb.

As we enter October, we also sense that the area of theatre arts has begun to steadily accelerate its pace for the 'on' season in Lincoln.

While we already have covered many of the season's repertoires in past columns, there seems to be no end to the planning of new events. This week we learn of the projected season of the Enid Miller Theatre at Nebraska Wesleyan University. The first major production of the season will be Arthur Miller's classic drama, "Death of a Salesman," which will open October 14 and run through the 17.

Husband and wife, Keith and Susan Jacobshagen, have teamed their efforts and talents in an art exhibit at First Plymouth Congregational Church. Mr. Jacobshagen, a graduate of Kansas City Art Institute with an MFA from the University of Kansas, is now assistant professor of art at the University of Nebraska. Mrs. Jacobshagen is a graduate of the University of Kansas with a masters degree from the University of Nebraska. You'll find the works most unusual and interesting. The exhibit in Pilgrim Hall is open through the end of October.

OOPS! Seems our glasses were a bit nearsighted last week. In speaking of children's theatre in Lincoln, we disconcertedly spoke of a past drought. There have, indeed, been some wonderful efforts in the past, and in praising the oncoming efforts of TAFY and Three Plays For Lincoln children, it was not our intention to ruffle feathers of such commendable efforts as put forth by the Children's Zoo, Pinewood Bowl, the University of Nebraska, City Recreation Department, Community Playhouse, Junior League or any others that a brief glance fails to recall. While we continue to heartily endorse present efforts, we stand corrected on our omission.

Now, for your further entertainment: AS IT IS . . . A photograph does not lie, it captures the fleeting moments of man and nature, and can be utilized to aid in painting.

Thus, the photographs of Thomas Eakins will be of special interest as they open on exhibit at Sheldon Art Gallery on Tuesday, Oct. 5.

THAT OLD MAGIC LAMP . . . will delight the eyes and ears of every child as they see the first of three plays for children, "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," to be held Saturday, Oct. 9 at East High Auditorium. Sponsored by the Delta Delta Alumnae Association for the benefit of the Children's Zoo, the three plays will be presented by the National Children's Theatre Association. Curtain time is 1 o'clock, and tickets may be purchased at the door.

THE RISE OF BRONZE . . . twenty-one bronze sculptures will adorn the Koenig Art Gallery of Concordia Teachers College in Seward, beginning Sunday, Oct. 3. Artist Paul Gradlund is said to trace his artistic heritage back through the figurative sculptors in Renaissance Italy. The show will be on exhibit through Oct. 31.

A LAUGH A MINUTE . . . or so we hear,

in Woody Allen's Comedy, "Don't Drink The Water," which will open at the Lincoln Community Playhouse tomorrow evening. We hear that lead actor and actress, George Carpenter and Jan Healey, are keeping the cast in stitches through oh so many rehearsals. Sounds like it might well be worth a 'look-see.' Shows run weekends through the end of October.

CURTAIN CALL . . . CENGAS EXHIBIT . . . opening Oct. 4, works by Laurine Kimmel and Lillian Noble, both of Nebraska City.

GAS LIGHT VAUDEVILLE REVIEW . . . a rollicking evening of melodrama fun at the Gas Light Theatre at 9 o'clock on Friday and Saturday.

PLAYHOUSE PUPPETS . . . will present their interpretation of "Faust" on Saturdays, Oct. 2-23, 2:30 o'clock. Fun for kids!

the BEST card to carry on a tour of the shops

What a wonderful modern world we live in! For instance, it is said that half of a good meal is an attractive table. Today, that attractive table is almost yours before you put a pot on the stove.

Dinnerware has become so handsome, that without a morsel of food it can be appetizing. Manufacturers have also kept the budget-minded in mind, and relatively inexpensive place settings of china, silver and crystal can be had on a moderate budget.

This week, on shopping tour we examined the many elements that go to make food more delectably attractive.

AT BRANDEIS

For everyday, practical wear and tear, Corning has introduced a new lightweight, durable dish—Corelle Livingware. Available in four lovely patterns. Winter Frost White, Spring Blossom Green, Snowflake Blue or Butterfly Gold, each pattern features china-like white as the basic color with trim in blue, green or gold.

The dishes, which are moderately priced, offer an amazing new material that's translucent, lightweight and yet, strong. It has the look, feel and ring of china, but is safe in the oven and dishwasher. Perhaps best of all, it has a two-year guarantee not to break, craze, chip or stain. The dishes are found in the housewares department.

In the china department, we found that Independence Stoneware has recently put some new patterns on the market that are of a most unusual decor. Our eye first caught a dish in the Taos pattern. Featuring colors of light earth brown and white with accents of black, the design is like that of large leaves. Calligraphy reverses the colors of the double-textured design on accessory pieces.

Another new pattern by Independence is Sequoia. This hand-dipped pattern in rich, natural tones celebrates the timeless energy of the earth. It lends an interesting note to any table.

Both patterns are simple enough, that they may be easily dressed up for evening wear, or accessorized to give an attractive but casual air.

Noritake China also has introduced some new and modern patterns in a line called Expression China. Colorful patterns will lend themselves to daily meals or special occasions. Many young brides, we were told, prefer the feel of china—even for everyday usage. The price range of these new Noritake patterns makes this possible. The dishes are also dishwasher safe.

One of our favorite patterns is called Tourmaline. Circles of blue, black, gold and pink border the plate, with a pattern of four smaller circles of the same colors in the center of the plate. The serving pieces are in an unusual and interesting design.

In the linen department, we found a new coordinate set for casual service. The set is called Country Flair, and includes a colorful plastic table cloth with a lady bug design and brightly colored solid dishes to coordinate. The dishes include a salt and pepper set, mugs, salad bowls, salad set, serving tray and glasses. They may be purchased individually or in the set. The tablecloth is available in 68 inch round, 32 x 90 inch, or 32 x 72 inch.

Place mats have become very popular lately, and can be used for either formal or casual dining. A woven mat of Wonder-looper is one of the more sought-after styles, because it is soil resistant and washable.

In tablecloths, we found a bandana pattern in permanent press fabric. Large blocks of the bandana pattern of red and blue alternate for a patches effect.

The finishing touch on a table might be your stemware. Noritake China has recently introduced a new stemware called Spotlight. A combination of clear and frosted glass, this crystal is of a heavy weight and would serve well for everyday use. It is available in red, black green, blue and brown.

AT MILLER & PAINE

One of the newest and most attractive additions to the family dining table is Franciscan Gourmet, the first complete line of ceramic dinnerware and pots designed to go together.

The table top fashions, ranging from fondue pots to casseroles and even six-quart cookers, can go from the freezer, to the range or oven, and to the table or return to the freezer.

They come in 12 handsome sizes and six practical shapes, and have a glaze and body which are versatile and strong—a requirement of every housewife.

And milady wasn't forgotten when the gourmet fashions were being designed, for there are indentions on the ends of the handles to enable thumbs to fit for sure gripping. Also, the pots flare out at the top for easier carrying and handling, the handles are large, and the tops nest inside the pots for space and extra storage protection. The insides and lids are glazed in a sand color, and the matte finish is charcoal toned on the outside. Turn over the pots and find a good idea for good dinners—the ideas are borrowed from many countries and are suited for that specific pot.

The coordinating dinnerware comes in five distinctive patterns. Employing the same earthy tones, are Primary, Circles, Stripes, Brush and Abstract.

Franciscan is constantly coming up with new products—and they even have moved into crystal, both for everyday and for formal occasions.

A brand-new earthenware pattern from Franciscan is called Floral, and it sports a contemporary grouping of flowers on either a white or avocado background.

Fine china has not been ignored by Franciscan, and the ivory toned china is preferred —with the only ornamentation being on the borders, either broad or narrow. For example, the new Ariel line has a narrow edging of tiny circles set off by bands of platinum. Other new china patterns include Quadrille, Castile, and Silver Lining.

Lenox has reintroduced the more ornate china pattern called Autumn—and it has all shades of flowers on the brim and in the center, with some raised areas for accent. Lenox has some brand-new fine china patterns that are more ornate and more colorful than previous patterns. For example, one has a white background with shades of green, blue, and purple forming the border in a contemporary design.

By the way, soup tureens are returning to popularity—and they come in all shapes, sizes, and decorations for serving your favorite soup or chowder at the table.

Platware is always an important addition to the table setting, and Gorham's newest sterling pattern, Medici, is certain to add elegance to any formal dining arrangement. The new pattern is quite ornate and influenced by the Spanish baroque flavor.

Stainless steel by Reed and Barton also has been under the influence of the ornate in the Royal Majesty line, but then there is the Lovelock which has straight, contemporary lines.

Reed and Barton's Christmas Plate '71 has already arrived. Each of the 7,500 plates of the limited edition is numbered. The engraved Damascene finish adds lustre and color to the lovely plate. Copper, brass and silver are used throughout the collector's item. By the way, the second of the Audubon plate series is now out, and it features the red hawk.

Spoon collectors will be delighted in a new series of spoons designed by George Jensen. The 1971 spoon of the year, the first of the series, is made of gilt sterling and sports a cherry blossom. The spoons will depict a different flower each year.

A 'First' For The Playhouse Guild

For the Lincoln Community Playhouse 'firsts' are not unusual. There was, for instance, the first performance presented by the community theater group in a small, rather unattractive and certainly crowded theater. That was many years ago. Now the Playhouse soon will be moving into a theater all its own.

Another, and exceedingly important 'first' for the Community Playhouse was the formation of the Lincoln Community Playhouse Guild which is composed of dedicated women who play a vital role in the ever-increasing success of the Community Theater.

Yesterday the Lincoln Community Playhouse Guild had its own 'first' which took place at the Guild's annual luncheon, held at the University Club. For the first time since its existence the Guild presented awards to seven of its members who had contributed not only hard work, but creativity to many of the Guild's projects. Mrs. Virginia Duxbury, the chairman of the Guild's first Beaux Arts Ball, and Mrs. Wallace Richardson, who headed the committee for the second Beaux Arts Ball, were among the award winners, as are Mrs. G. T. Watson, Jr., who was the originator of the "Haunted House"; Mrs. Robert Smith, chairman of the 1970 "Haunted House" project; Mrs. Kenneth Simpson (the former Helen Christopher) for her great service to the Playhouse and the Guild, and to Mrs. Cliff Hillegass and Mrs. William Dahlstrom who were co-chairmen of the Guild's giant rummage sale.

And there was a very special award to William Dahlstrom for assistance above and beyond the call of husbandly duty.

Also included on the presentations program were past president pins which were received by Mrs. Mark Muffley and Mrs. Glen Hand.

The guest speaker at the luncheon was John Wilson, Community Playhouse director, who gave his audience a highlights preview of the forthcoming production at the Playhouse, "Don't Drink the Water."

The Guild's new official staff for the 1971-72 is composed of Mrs. L. A. Enersen, president; Mrs. Walter Broer, vice-president; Mrs. Doris Pierce, secretary, and Mrs. J. W. Rapp, treasurer.

offer to buy it
by Abigail VanBuren

DEAR ABBY: If a person eating in a restaurant slips an ashtray with the name of the restaurant into his pocket as a souvenir, is it considered stealing?

I have heard some restaurant owners consider it a compliment, and it's a good way of advertising. Is this true?
DIXFIELD, ME.

DEAR DIXFIELD: When one takes something that belongs to someone else it is stealing. The kind of compliments and advertising you suggest costs restaurants millions of dollars every year. If you want a souvenir, offer to buy it. They'll probably give it to you.

DEAR ABBY: My mother, my married sister and my best friend who are married all tell me no matter how well a woman treats a man, or how good the man is, he will be unfaithful to his wife or girl friend sooner or later.

They say it is something every woman must accept, and know how to deal with. Is this true, Abby?

Maybe I'm too idealistic, but it is hard for me to believe all men are too shallow to carry on a pure relationship with only one woman. I am engaged to be married soon, and absolute faithfulness means a great deal to me. So, if what they say is true, how should it be dealt with?

HAS FAITH

DEAR HAS: They are wrong. And don't worry about how to deal with a problem until it's a reality.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is married to a fine young man who is the only child of a rich mother. She floods them with gifts and trips, etc. which I could never afford to give them.

Two of my friends have the same problem and we wonder if these women know they are being unkind to the other mothers. Or do they care?

"NO SCRAPS FROM THE TABLE"

DEAR NO SCRAPS: Would you prefer that your daughter and her husband receive none of the things you are not able to give them from the "other mother"? That is what you are suggesting.

DEAR ABBY: How can I tell my mother (age 47) that if she doesn't quit her job and start spending more time with my father (age 52) she is going to lose him?

I am married now and my parents are alone again. Mother has now started selling real estate like the very bread on their table depended upon it, which it does not, as Dad has always made a very good living.

I didn't realize the seriousness of the situation until Dad came along with my husband and me one evening. We ran into a girl friend of mine, now newly divorced, and I saw Dad actually encourage this divorcee's attentions.

He is not a dirty old man, Abby. He is just very lonely and looking for something to do with his spare time, which is a dangerous combination. How can I tell my mother she had better start being a wife again before it's too late?

CONCERNED DAUGHTER
DEAR CONCERNED: Tell her, just the way you told me.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

POSTCARD by Stan DeLaplante

Bright October. The time of year we get our shots updated. Our inner clock checked. Our stomach poked. Chest listened to. The pump-up Judas cuff on the ear. ("Humm," said the doctor. "that's funny.")

Modern medicine is done by many people.

The nurse said: "Take off your shirt and lie down here."

She attached a lot of cuffs and wires to my arms and legs. A wired suction cup on the chest. She dialed a number. Gave my name, rank and serial number. Started the machine. Electrocardiogram.

The machine flashed the news over the wire. At the other end another machine pours out a stream of tape like a stock machine ticker.

The heart doctor reads it as it comes out. "How about it, Doctor? Buy? Or Sell?"

I got a couple of shots to ward off overseas plagues. Here we come, ready or not.

Science is after those poor laboratory rats again.

They put a bunch of rats through "anxiety provoking situations." Then they offered them a dish of water and a dish of gin.

The rats headed straight for the gin, son. Didn't even use the water for chasers.

Nothing reported on what the anxiety provoking situations were. But I imagine they were things like, "Your bank account is overdrawn." Or they had the rats working out an income tax form.

One thing they found: the rats drank more over the weekend. When the laboratory was dark.

Thus Science figured that is why cocktail lounges are dimly lighted.

They found the rats drank more when it was totally dark. (That's an idea for bar owners. Naturally, you couldn't make the bar completely dark. But you could put blinders on the customers.

Science should take a look at us poor rats sitting in the doctor's outer office. Waiting for the girl in the white uniform to put her head through the door: "Doctor is ready now."

By this time you have chewed your way through the old copies of Life and are into the health magazines.

"One of the first symptoms of moperly is . . ."

Now you've got it. You came in to get a checkup. You walk into the medic's office with symptoms of moperly. A born loser.

The nurse put a needle in my arm. She drew off a tube of blood. Who knows what for? I don't ask. I don't want to know. Maybe she practices witchcraft at home. Needs the blood for a witchy potion.

She scraped me for the electrocardiogram. "Better contact," she said. "That's what they tell me."

That's anxiety provoking. Lying down, wired to the infernal machine. What if the electricity backfires?

This is the way they wire you up for the electric chair, man!

She punched some buttons. The machine went whinnnnne. Thucka, thucka. Beep!

At the other end, the heart doctor was getting the message from my ticker. "Mayday! Mayday!"

The nurse was busy. Picking up the suction cup from one place on my chest. Sticking it down on another. The machine went whinnnnne. Thucka, thucka.

That is what drives rats to gin. Sometimes men, too. Copyright Chronicle Publishing Co. 1971

POSTCARD by Stan DeLaplante

Bright October. The time of year we get our shots updated. Our inner clock checked. Our stomach poked. Chest listened to. The pump-up Judas cuff on the car. ("Hm," said the doctor, "that's funny.") Modern medicine is done by many people.

The nurse said: "Take off your shirt and lie down here." She attached a lot of cuffs and wires to my arms and legs. A wired suction cup on the chest. She dialed a number. Gave my name, rank and serial number. Started the machine. Electrocardiogram.

The machine flashed the news over the wire. At the other end another machine pours out a stream of tape like a stock machine ticker.

The heart doctor reads it as it comes out. "How about it, Doctor? Buy? Or Sell."

I got a couple of shots to ward off overseas plagues. Here we come, ready or not.

Science is after those poor laboratory rats again.

They put a bunch of rats through "anxiety provoking situations." Then they offered them a dish of water and a dish of gin.

The rats headed straight for the gin, son. Didn't even use the water for chasers.

Nothing reported on what the anxiety provoking situations were. But I imagine they were things like, "Your bank account is overdrawn." Or they had the rats working out an income tax form.

One thing they found: the rats drank more over the weekend. When the laboratory was dark.

Thus Science figured that is why cocktail lounges are dimly lighted.

They found the rats drank more when it was totally dark. (That's an idea for bar owners. Naturally, you couldn't make the bar completely dark. But you could put blinders on the customers.

Science should take a look at us poor rats sitting in the doctor's outer office. Waiting for the girl in the white uniform to put her head through the door: "Doctor is ready now."

By this time you have chewed your way through the old copies of Life and are into the health magazines.

"One of the first symptoms of mopey is..."

Now you've got it. You came in to get a checkup. You walk into the medic's office with symptoms of mopey. A born loser.

The nurse put a needle in my arm. She drew off a tube of blood. Who knows what for? I don't ask. I don't want to know. Maybe she practices witchcraft at home. Needs the blood for a witchy potion.

She scraped me for the electrocardiogram. "Better contact," she said. "That's what they tell me."

That's anxiety provoking. Lying down, wired to the infernal machine. What if the electricity backfires? This is the way they wire you up for the electric chair, man!

She punched some buttons. The machine went whinnnnne. Thucka, thucka. Beep!

At the other end, the heart doctor was getting the message from my ticker. "Mayday! Mayday!"

The nurse was busy. Picking up the suction cup from one place on my chest. Sticking it down on another. The machine went whinnnnne. Thucka, thucka.

That is what drives rats to gin. Sometimes men, too.

Building For ETV Delayed

The Nebraska Educational Television Commission was told Thursday that it may not be able to move into its new building until late December, rather than the Nov. 1 date predicted earlier.

In a report on construction progress on the state educational telecommunications center, building coordinator Boyd Rooney said the postponement will be the result of a delay in acquiring carpeting and furniture.

Other aspects of the construction are on schedule, Rooney told ETV commissioners, although he added the heating and air conditioning system won't be ready for its initial test until early October.

If that system's full readiness is delayed, he said, it might prevent an earlier move-in, as well.

Rooney said the carpet and furniture suppliers will not be able to acquire the items as early as had been planned.

Original order by the commission had been set back five months earlier in the year because of a delay of approval at the state government level.

In other matters, the ETV Commission formally accepted a grant of $223,622 from the U.S. Office of Health, Education and Welfare.

Most of that money will go for purchase of three color cameras for the main studio in the new building. The cameras are expected to cost no more than $100,000. When acquired, they will be the first color cameras for the state ETV network.

The remainder of the grant money will go for lighting installation, at a cost of $48,188, in the studio.

The commission also heard that the state network has been awarded grants totaling $30,000 from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

A grant of $9,924 will be used to produce a half-hour "Christmas at Boys Town" program.

The other grant, for $20,077, will finance production of a one-hour "Vietnam Beyond the Fury" program to highlight the people of Vietnam who might parallel America's "silent majority."

Program Manager Ron Hull is putting together the program from film he shot during a recent trip to Vietnam.

Both programs will be aired nationally by the Public Broadcasting Service.

Commission members also directed staff members to prepare a report on usage of a translator in use near Fairbury.

The translator picks up the ETV signal for broadcast in a "silent pocket" largely missed by the state network.

Program Manager Jack McBride said the study will determine if usage in the Fairbury area warrants continued placement of the translator there.

McBride also reported that a citizens organization, Nebraskans for Public Television, has decided to begin in November publication of a program guide to ETV to replace the "ETVizing" that was canceled by the commission in the face of budgetary restraints.

The new publication, "Choice," will go to members of the citizens group and state legislators.

Indigent Get Big Share Of State Welfare

Medical payments to the indigent in Nebraska during the last fiscal year totaled $39.4 million, more than twice as much as aid payments to families with dependent children, state records show.

The ADC payments totaled $19.2 million.

Of the $39.4 million in medical payments, some 52% went to operators of nursing homes.

Another breakdown showed some 42% of the $39.4 million went for medical expenses of indigent Nebraskans 85 years and older.

Demo Compromise Formula Upheld

Washington (AP) — A U.S. Appeals Court Thursday reversed a lower court ruling that the Democratic Party's compromise formula for apportioning state delegate strength to its 1972 national convention is discriminatory, without rational basis and unconstitutional.

The three-judge court rejected a June 16 finding by U.S. District Judge June L. Green that the apportionment must be based strictly on the number of Democrats voting in each state in past presidential elections.

This is the second challenge to the Democratic plan turned down by the appeals court. It earlier rejected an appeal by Georgia, ruling the one-man, one-vote principle is not applicable here. Georgia has appealed to the Supreme Court.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., who represented the Democratic National Committee in the fight, said Thursday's decision "represents a major victory for the Democratic Party and Democrats throughout the nation."

Says Plan Fair

The ruling confirms, he said, that the plan is fair "and best represents the interest of the Democratic Party and the nation." Califano said he hopes all get together and focus on its "major concern," defeating President Nixon next year.

The formula worked out by the Democratic National Committee provides for allocating the 3,016 convention votes 46% on the basis of each state's average strength in the last three presidential elections and 54% on the basis of a multiple of three times their electoral college strength.

That formula would give smaller states a bigger voice in the convention, to be held in Miami Beach.

The suit was brought by the Democratic Party organizations of New York state, California and the District of Columbia.

Fahy's Opinion

Circuit Judge Charles Fahy, speaking for himself and Judges Roger Robb and Malcolm Wilkey said:

"We hold . . . that the decision made by the Democratic Party at the national level, here challenged, is tantamount to a decision of the states acting in concert. . . ."

Fahy said the court could not accept as the only constitutional formula one based "solely on prior party strength—one Democrat, one vote."

Fahy said, "It seems to us that the constitution represented at a national convention does not comprise solely 'Democrats,' so de ned.

"To the extent that a voter, whether he be a registered Democrat or Republican, third party adherent or independent, is given alternative states by the two major parties, he has a stake in the outcome of the nominating process of both parties. Accordingly, the constituency for a national convention comprises to a certain degree the entire electorate."

Bacon Arrest Warrant Quashed

San Francisco (UPI) — A federal appeals court ruled Thursday that 19-year-old anti-war activist Leslie Bacon was illegally arrested last April 27 as a "material witness" in the March 1 bombing of the national Capitol.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted Miss Bacon's petition for habeas corpus and ordered her arrest warrant quashed.

The court said the warrant, issued by Judge George Boldt in Seattle April 22, was illegal since it assumed without proper basis that Miss Bacon would not answer a subpoena.

The court ruled that a proper arrest warrant must be based on probable cause that testimony of the witness is material and that it would be "impractical" to use a subpoena.

The first test can be met by assertion by the U.S. attorney, but the second must be based on sufficient facts, the court said.

"Mere assertion will not do," the appellate court said. "As a basis for Bacon's arrest the warrant was invalid."

Heavy Trucks Being Prohibited On 66th Street

Heavy trucks are being prohibited on 66th between Fremont and Adams, City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger announced Thursday.

Holsinger said the residential street is being posted because heavy trucks are causing damage to the pavement.

Trucks weighing three tons or more will be prohibited on the street except for the purpose of making deliveries, he said, and no through traffic will be allowed.

Johnny Carson's Son Pleads Innocent To Pot Possession

Cranston, R.I. (AP) — Navy man Richard W. Carson, 19, a son of late-night television star Johnny Carson, was arrested with another sailor Thursday and charged with possession of marijuana.

The younger Carson, a petty officer third class at Quonset Point Naval Air Station, and Gary M. Golden, 21, were arrested shortly after noon near downtown Providence on Interstate 95.

Carson and Golden pleaded innocent to the charges before Justice of the Peace Raymond E. Ricci here and were released under $1,000 personal recognizance bonds. Trial was set for March 7, 1972.

Navy spokesmen said the two sailors were due to leave with their squadron for Antarctica Oct. 9.

State narcotics agent Wellington Ray said he was driving along the highway with two other agents when they passed an automobile occupied by two young men who appeared to be smoking marijuana.

The agents forced the car to the side of the road, Ray testified, received permission from the driver to search it and confiscated a quantity of suspected marijuana from the glove compartment.

Huff Is Named Deputy Election Commissioner

Charles Huff, a Lincoln attorney, was named Thursday as deputy Lancaster County election commissioner.

The appointment of Huff was made by Election Commissioner Bill Davidson from two nominations made by the Lancaster County Republican Central Committee.

State law requires the commissioner and his deputy to be from opposing political parties.

Huff will receive $6,000 a year in the deputy post and have a four year term identical to Davidson, a Democrat.

Pentagon Sets 10,000-Man Draft Quota For 3 Months

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon Thursday set a 10,000-man draft quota for the next three months and indicated next year's inductions will level off at about 1971's nine-year record low of 98,000.

Meanwhile spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim disclosed that Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has ordered the Army to reverse the policy under which Army recruiters rejected veterans seeking to re-enlist.

Drunk Driver Identified As Russ Defector

London (AP) — A Russian sent here as a trade official and who was subsequently picked up on a drunk driving charge was identified Thursday as the KGB defector who sparked the expulsion from Britain of 105 other Russians as spies.

The Foreign Office named him as Oleg Lyalin, 34, and his colleagues in the Soviet trade delegation described him as a slim 5 feet 9, with brown wavy hair.

As if to brand him as a man of no account, Soviet colleagues added he is a charmer with women who likes his vodka and tonic—all in all something of a playboy. For good measure, some suggested he probably was involved with some British woman.

First Soviet Embassy officials, then the British Foreign Office, pointed to Lyalin, as the man who skipped—taking with him, the British say, a stack of secret papers detailing the working of Moscow's spy setup here.

An address titled "Heart Attack — You Can't Mean Me." will be given by Daniel B. Stone, M.D. before Nebraska Wesleyan students at 4 p.m., Friday Oct. 8.

New UP Depot Is 'All-Nebraska'

The Union Pacific Railroad's new freight house and depot — an "all-Nebraska" structure near the Harris Overpass — was put up in one day and is now in service.

It is a modular structure which arrived in Lincoln Wednesday and was placed on its foundation Thursday. The 24-by-56 foot building is located at the side of the UP track just north of Harris Overpass.

The building is virtually all-Nebraska — it was planned and built by the Geer Co. of Grand Island and is equipped with SealRite windows made in Lincoln.

"The building was purchased by the UP as part of its buy-locally policy instituted several months ago," John C. Kenetick, president of the UP said.

Demo Compromise Formula Upheld

Washington (AP) — A U.S. Appeals Court Thursday reversed a lower court ruling that the Democratic Party's compromise formula for apportioning state delegate strength to its 1972 national convention is discriminatory, without rational basis and unconstitutional.

The three-judge court rejected a June 16 finding by U.S. District Judge June L. Green that the apportionment must be based strictly on the number of Democrats voting in each state in past presidential elections.

This is the second challenge to the Democratic plan turned down by the appeals court. It earlier rejected an appeal by Georgia, ruling the one-man, one-vote principle is not applicable here. Georgia has appealed to the Supreme Court.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., who represented the Democratic National Committee in the fight, said Thursday's decision "represents a major victory for the Democratic Party and Democrats throughout the nation."

Says Plan Fair

The ruling confirms, he said, that the plan is fair "and best represents the interest of the Democratic Party and the nation." Califano said he hopes all get together and focus on its "major concern," defeating President Nixon next year.

The formula worked out by the Democratic National Committee provides for allocating the 3,016 convention votes 46% on the basis of each state's average strength in the last three presidential elections and 54% on the basis of a multiple of three times their electoral college strength.

That formula would give smaller states a bigger voice in the convention, to be held in Miami Beach.

The suit was brought by the Democratic Party organizations of New York state, California and the District of Columbia.

Fahy's Opinion

Circuit Judge Charles Fahy, speaking for himself and Judges Roger Robb and Malcolm Wilkey said: "We hold . . . that the decision made by the Democratic Party at the national level, here challenged, is tantamount to a decision of the states acting in concert. . . ."

Fahy said the court could not accept as the only constitutional formula one based "solely on prior party strength—one Democrat, one vote."

Fahy said, "It seems to us that the constituency represented at a national convention does not comprise solely 'Democrats,' so defined.

"To the extent that a voter, whether he be a registered Democrat or Republican, third party adherent or independent, is given alternative slates by the two major parties, he has a stake in the outcome of the nominating process of both parties. Accordingly, the constituency for a national convention comprises to a certain degree the entire electorate."

Bacon Arrest Warrant Quashed

San Francisco (UPI) — A federal appeals court ruled Thursday that 19-year-old anti-war activist Leslie Bacon was illegally arrested last April 27 as a "material witness" in the March 1 bombing of the national Capitol.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted Miss Bacon's petition for habeas corpus and ordered her arrest warrant quashed.

The court said the warrant, issued by Judge George Boldt in Seattle April 22, was illegal since it assumed without proper basis that Miss Bacon would not answer a subpoena.

The court ruled that a proper arrest warrant must be based on probable cause that testimony of the witness is material and that it would be "impractical" to use a subpoena.

The first test can be met by assertion by the U.S. attorney, but the second must be based on sufficient facts, the court said.

"Mere assertion will not do," the appellate court said. "As a basis for Bacon's arrest the warrant was invalid."

The address is one of a series to be given this year at more than 80 colleges and universities outside the influence of a large medical center.

The series is sponsored by the American Medical Assn. Its purpose is to stimulate interest in medicine and related fields.

Dr. Stone is a professor and vice-chairman of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine in Omaha.

Cronkite Proposes FCC Be Stripped Of Licensing

Washington (AP) — The politicians should leave the radio and television business to the broadcasters and journalists, CBS newsmen Walter Cronkite said Thursday.

The veteran newsmen proposed as "the cleanest and perfect solution" to what he sees as government intimidation of broadcast news the elimination of all government control of broadcasting.

"The time is past," Cronkite told the Senate constitutional rights subcommittee investigating freedom of the press, "when there can be any legal justification for controlling broadcasting's program content."

He proposed the Federal Communications Commission be stripped of its authority to review a station's program content and the balancing of its news shows in the regular license renewal process.

Left alone to operate without the "cloud" of government interference, Cronkite said.

television and radio newsmen would act "with the same variety of motives, principles and performance that have worked pretty well in publishing."

If a small station gets a call from Washington, Cronkite suggested "it might frighten them. 'Let's not take any chances' and offend anyone for a while," Cronkite said a station manager might reason.

In the case of a major network, he said, it too could be intimidated by a series of license examinations on the network's member stations, speeches by high administration officials and FCC mandates for the broadcast industry to "put your house in order."

"They all add up to this atmosphere of intimidation," Cronkite said.

Cronkite's proposal would strip the FCC of licensing authority but leave it responsible for strictly technical matters, such as seeing that stations do not wander off their frequencies.

The idea was received non-committally by subcommittee Chairman Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

Ervin said, after the hearing, "I haven't got a closed mind on it. It's worthy of serious consideration. Very serious consideration."

"Any news media dependent upon government permission for its existence is in a precarious position," Ervin said.

4 Men Arrested For Picking Pot

Four young Wisconsin men, ages 21 to 23, were arrested Thursday morning by the State Patrol for picking marijuana five miles northwest of Greenwood, in Cass County, Sgt. Vern O'Neal reported.

O'Neal said a farmer saw them picking the marijuana in a field and putting it in a camper pickup and called the State Patrol.

O'Neal said he found about 75 to 100 pounds of raw marijuana in the camper.

The four were lodged in Cass County Jail in Plattsburgh pending charges, O'Neal said.

Colin Says His Firm Subcontracts County Work

Lancaster County Commissioner Robert E. Colin Sr., in repudiating Thursday a statement that the Colin Electric Motor Service was doing business with Lancaster County, said that Colin Electric will sometimes do subcontract work for companies contracting with the county.

Specifically, Colin noted that "a boiler damper motor removed by Wentz Heating and Air Conditioning Company from the Lancaster power plant" was subcontracted to Colin Electric for repairs Wednesday.

Commissioner Bill Grossman earlier had said Colin Electric was doing business with Lancaster County but Colin said since he took office in Jan. 1971, "Colin Electric has performed no services directly for Lancaster County," Colin owns the firm.

Colin said the bill may run as high as $60 for repairing the boiler damper motor but a new motor "would cost about $100 to $150."

Clippings Or Socks?

Two of the major upsets in college football last weekend were Rutgers' bumping of Princeton and Army's win over Georgia Tech.

Both winning coaches, Tom Cahill of Army and John Bateman of Rutgers, claim they used newspaper clippings to help pull the major upsets.

"Our victory just brings out the emotional aspects of a football game," Cahill explained earlier this week. "We arrived in Atlanta on Friday night and saw the score 34-3 predicted in the papers. That didn't sit well with our squad."

Bateman pointed out, "UPI picked us to lose 45-0. I don't think any team should walk on the field as 45 point underdogs."

But there may have been another factor involved in the Rutgers' upset of Princeton. Moments before the kickoff, Bateman was informed by one of his players that they had worn red stockings a year ago when Princeton clobbered them by 41-14.

"When I heard that," Bateman said, "I said let's get those damn things off." His team then switched socks before taking the field for the kickoff.

Late week, despite all the upsets, we came out with a 43-17 mark for 71.7 per cent to make the season log read 108-44-2 for 70.8 per cent. Hoping no coach takes these things seriously, here we go again:

The Big Eight

NEBRASKA 28, Utah State 7... Figuring the Aggies' win over Kansas State wasn't too much of a fluke.

COLORADO 21, Kansas State 7... If we were a real gambler, this is where we'd pick an upset.

IOWA STATE 23, Kent State 7... The Cyclones don't lose often — in non-conference games.

KANSAS 20, Minnesota 14... Another upset possibility here if the Jayhawks aren't wary.

MISSOURI 24, Army 0... The Cadets aren't as good as you'd think. That win last week was really an upset.

SOUTHERN CAL 21, Oklahoma 20... This is our upset special of the week.

The Top Ten

MICHIGAN 42, Navy 0... No problem for the Wolverines to stay No. 2.

TEXAS 35, Oregon 7... Oregon coach Jerry Frei keeps saying what good athletes he has playing defense, but they keep giving up touchdowns.

NOTRE DAME 33, Michigan State 14... Woe be the team that meets a Notre Dame on the rebound.

AUBURN 38, Kentucky 0... Kentucky is terrible.

ALABAMA 28, Mississippi 7... The Tide keeps rolling.

PENN STATE 21, Air Force 10... The Nittany Lions might be pretty good — even for an Eastern team.

STANFORD 30, Duke 7... The Pacific-8 hasn't looked good in non-conference warfare — except for Stanford.

The East

PRINCETON over Columbia... DARTMOUTH over Holy Cross... PENN over Brown... CORNELL over Rutgers... WEST VIRGINIA over Pitt... YALE over Colgate.

The South

MIAMI, FLA. over Baylor... TENNESSEE over Florida... GEORGIA over Mississippi State... GEORGIA TECH over Clemson... LSU over Rice... DAYTON over Louisville... WAKE FOREST over Maryland... SOUTH CAROLINA over Memphis State... NORTH CAROLINA over North Carolina State... BOSTON COLLEGE over Richmond... TULANE over William & Mary... VANDERBILT over Virginia... FLORIDA STATE over Virginia Tech.

The Midwest

WASHINGTON over Illinois... SYRACUSE over Indiana... MIAMI, OHIO over Marshall... NORTHWESTERN over Wisconsin... OHIO STATE over California... PURDUE over Iowa... SOUTHERN ILLINOIS over Wichita... TOLEDO over Ohio.

The Southwest

ARKANSAS over Texas Christian... HOUSTON over San Jose State... SMU over New Mexico State... CINCINNATI over Texas A&M... TULSA over West Texas State.

The Far West

Rockets Slip Past Floridians With Byron Beck Jump Shot

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Fremont — Byron Beck's 20-foot jump shot with ten seconds left sealed a 110-107 American Basketball Association exhibition win for the Denver Rockets over the Floridians here Thursday night.

The victory here at the Hopkins gym on the Midland College campus was the first in three exhibitions for the Rockets. The loss was the Floridian's first after two wins.

The game was tight most of the last half after Denver led the entire first half until there were 25 seconds remaining.

In the second period the Rockets had as much as a 10-point advantage, 36-26, before all-league guard, Calvin Mack, spearheaded the Floridian's comeback. The Floridians even went out front by five, 82-77, at the end of the third quarter, but the Rockets battled back.

The lead changed several times in the fourth quarter with neither team able to maintain much of an advantage.

The Floridians had a 107-104 lead with 2:17 left but were shut-out by Denver the rest of the way. The Rocket's Julian Hammond made a jump-shot from the top of the key with 1:57 to go, closing the gap to 107-106.

Then after a missed Floridian field goal, Julius Keye of Denver made a basket to put the Rockets back on top for good with 1:26 remaining.

The Floridians missed two more field goals before Beck made the last basket.

Kansas rookie Dave Robisch didn't start for Denver but played most of the remaining time. He made his best showing by scoring 10 points in the last 11 minutes.

Versatile Aggie Willing To Play Any Position

... STRYCULA WOULD EVEN SIT ON BENCH 'IF IT WOULD HELP TEAM'

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

It's difficult to find a position John Strycula hasn't tried or excelled in at Utah State.

"I don't particularly care where I play—wherever I'm needed," says the 5-11, 185-pound senior running back from Covina, Calif., "In fact, I'd even sit on the bench if it would help the team."

Termed the best all-around football player in his coaching career by Aggie head coach Chuck Mills, Strycula will be one of the main cogs the Aggies will toss at coach Bob Devaney's Cornhuskers who meet the westerners starting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Memorial Stadium. Both squads are undefeated after three contests.

Besides leading the Logan crew in rushing last year with 644 yards and in scoring with 48 points, Strycula showed he could dash with punts. He was the Aggies' second-best punt returner and scooted 73 yards with one for a touchdown in a 33-14 romp over Bowling Green.

He can also pass or catch the football. As a backup man for regular quarterback Tony Adams, Strycula threw for two scores last year and has completed his only pass this year. He also grabbed three scoring passes in the Aggies' 5-5 campaign.

Strycula credits some of his pass catching knowledge to senior split end Bob Wicks, an all-American candidate who is the top pass catcher with 168 yards this season for USU. Wicks and Strycula are teammates for the 13th consecutive year dating back to the fourth grade and have participated in numerous all-star contests together.

"He's helped me quite a bit," Strycula says, "He gives me little hints on how to do things and they come in real handy."

Terming the Aggies a balanced team, he refutes the workhorse label that has occasionally been assigned to him.

"We really don't have one workhorse," he explains, "I don't think any college team can get along with just one star running back—it's a team game and I really can't say that I'm physically talented enough to be the leader here."

Nevertheless, he paced the Aggies in rushes with 157 last year while pounding out a 4.1 yard average and was second to Adams in total offense with 751 yards.

Although he said the Aggies are looking forward to their Lincoln encounter with the defending national and Big Eight champions, Strycula says he views the tilt with mixed emotions.

"Sure it's a great honor to play the top team in the country," he admits, "But I don't believe you try to win this one game any harder than any other—you've got to play each game to win and not key on any one game or you're going to be in trouble."

"There's no doubt they're the best club we'll face this year and it would be great to beat them at home," he says.

GIANTS WIN NL WEST

Marichal Tops SD Padres, 5-1

... PITTSBURGH NEXT?

San Diego (AP) — High-kicking Juan Marichal pitched the San Francisco Giants to the National League's elusive West Division title Thursday night with a masterful 5-1 victory over the San Diego Padres in the final game of the season.

The victory sent the Giants into the best-of-five playoff series against Pittsburgh, the East champion, for the National League pennant. The series starts Saturday in San Francisco.

The Giants, who had frittered away almost all of an 8½-game lead to the pursuing Los Angeles Dodgers with a dreadful September slump, had to call on the ace of their staff to nail down the division crown and Marichal was superb.

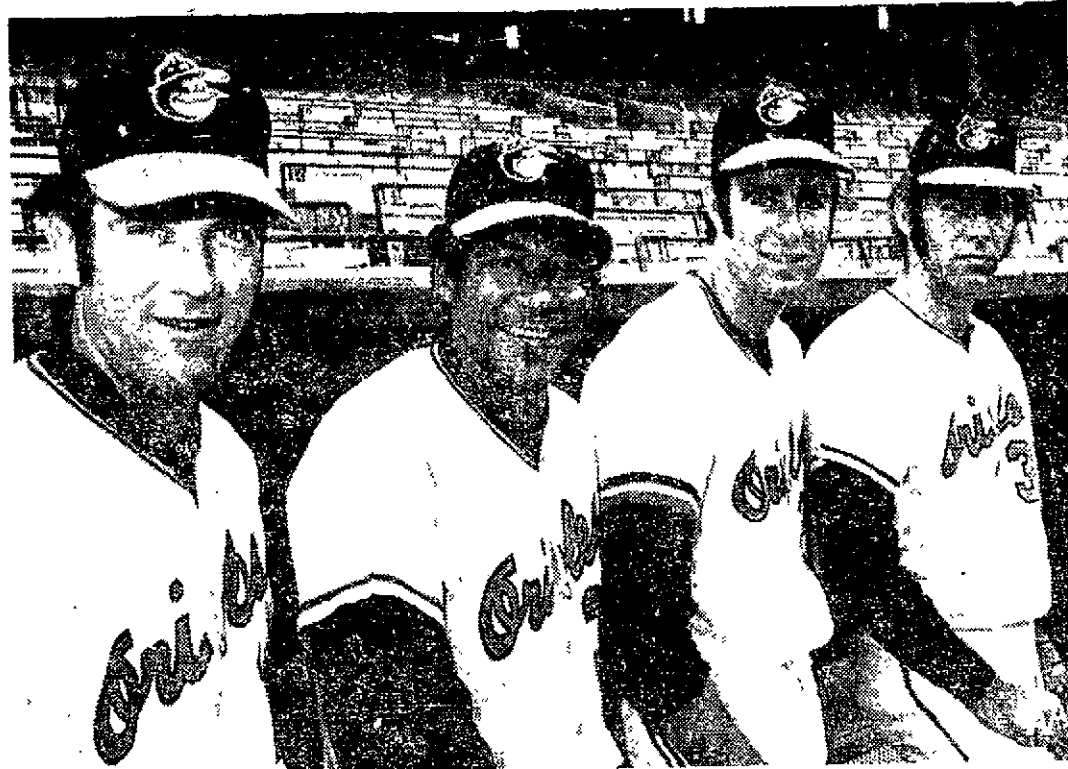

The veteran right-hander from the Dominican Republic permitted just five hits and the only run the Padres managed was unearned — the result of an error by Marichal himself.

The Giants never had to worry about the scoreboard and the game Los Angeles was playing against Houston 125 miles north of here. A Dodger victory and Giant loss would have forced a one-game playoff between the two teams for the flag but Marichal prevented that.

Rookie Dave Kingman, filling in for injured Bobby Bonds, the Giants' offensive leader, ripped a two-run homer that provided the big difference for the Giants.

Marichal and Dave Roberts, ace left-hander of the Padres' pitching staff, had matched zeroes through the first three innings of the tense game. The Giants almost had a run in the first when Tito Fuentes doubled and Willie McCovey singled. But Ollie Brown's shotgun throw from right field cut down Fuentes at the plate.

BALTIMORE'S BIG FOUR

The Baltimore Orioles are the first team since the 1920 Chicago White Sox to come up with four 20-game winners in one season. Awaiting the start of Saturday's American League playoffs with Oakland in Baltimore, they are, from left, Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar, Jim Palmer and Pat Dobson. McNally will start the opener Saturday.

Two Intra-City Games On Tap This Weekend

... SOUTHEAST GOES TO FREMONT

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

Capital City high school football fans will be treated to a pair of intra-city prep clashes this weekend, as Lincoln High and East square off at Seacrest Field Friday night and Northeast and Pius X battle at the same site Saturday evening.

The fifth Lincoln eleven, coach Frank Solich's Southeast High Knights, travel to Fremont for a meeting with the Tigers Friday night.

East High, rated No. 1 in the state after three lopsided victories, has scored 125 points while giving up just a single touchdown.

Coach Lee Zentic's Spartans smothered Hastings, 57-7, the same team which upset Lincoln High, 8-7, to open the season.

"But comparative scores don't mean a thing," Zentic insists, "particularly when you're talking about a team which East has never beaten in the history of the school."

Lincoln High has won all four games between the two, swamping East 52-0 in their first encounter, then winning more closely contested 13-7, 14-13 and 6-0 decisions the past three years.

Though Zentic has praise for his offensive unit, which has averaged 52 points in each of its last two outings, he has also been especially pleased with his club's defensive play.

Especially of brother linebackers Dick and Jim Neal.

"The whole defensive unit has a lot of pride," Zentic admits. "We give them one point for leading a tackle and one-half point for assisting," he adds. "Dick Neal has led the team in every game, and his brother Jim has been just one-half point behind him each time."

Coach Andy Loehr's Links have won two in a row since the Hastings upset, bumping Scottsbluff, 28-14, and Pius X, 6-3.

"Our main emphasis has been on eliminating the small, foolish mistakes," Loehr says. "In the Pius game, particularly in the second half, we seemed to have things pretty well under control. We'd generate drive after drive, but then have them stalled by some error — a fumble, a penalty or some missed assignment. We want to eliminate that and be more consistent."

Northeast and Pius will be looking for initial victories in their Saturday night encounter. Coach Bob Els' Rockets played top ten rated Fremont within a touchdown and led second-ranked Southeast until the second half before dropping an 8-6 decision prior to being smothered by East, 47-0.

Pius, in addition to the 6-3 loss to Lincoln High, was edged 13-7 by Beatrice, another Class A top ten team.

Southeast, the defending Class A state champions, faces its second tough on-the-road assignments in as many weeks.

Coach Frank Solich's Knights, No. 5 in the initial ratings, moved up to second this week after traveling to Bellevue and collecting a 24-20 victory.

Fremont represents another foe from the top five teams in the state. The Tigers are currently ranked No. 4.

Senators Forfeit To Yanks

Washington (AP) — Raucous fans rushing into the field with only one out to go gave the New York Yankees a 9-0 forfeit victory over Washington with the Senators ahead 7-5 Thursday night in an unruly farwell to baseball in the nation's capital.

The wild windup climaxed a 71-year era of baseball in the nation's capital, where 11 presidents have watched the Senators and thrown out the traditional first ball of the season.

The American League has already approved the Senators' move to Dallas-Fort Worth for next season.

Howard, given a standing ovation everytime he came to the plate, had responded with his 26th homer to start a four-run uprising that had wiped out a 5-1 deficit in the sixth.

The last forfeited game in the major leagues was July 18, 1954 when the Philadelphia Phillies were awarded a 9-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Lincoln PBA Pro-Am Winner To Earn Trip

Winston-Salem, N.C. — The winner of the pro-am event for the $35,000 Lincoln Open, along with other pro-am winners on the Professional Bowlers Association (PBA) tour this year, have a unique additional prize.

All winners, including the champion of the Oct. 22-25 event at Hollywood Bowl in Lincoln along with their spouses, receive an all-expense paid trip to Winston-Salem, N.C., in mid-February of 1972.

There, the pro-am winners of the PBA's 1971 tournaments, along with the first tournaments in 1972, will compete in the Winston-Salem Championship Pro-Am. This will be the second year that the Lincoln winner has qualified for the trip.

A separate prize fund, to be paid in U.S. Savings Bonds, will be set up for everyone in the tournament.

Officials of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., sponsors of the event, said that winners of PBA Pro-Am's starting with the Miller High Life Open from this winter through the Winston-Salem Classic of next year will be eligible.

This will involve some 32-35 pro-am winners in the field.

High School Griddier Dies

Columbia, S.C. — An autopsy Thursday revealed that a 16-year-old high school football player died of a broken neck after being tackled in a junior varsity football game near Columbia Wednesday night.

Richland County Coroner Cecil Wiles said Spring Valley football player Kenneth Brown had his neck broken in a "freak accident" which occurred when he was tackled during a game with Lower Richland, another Columbia area school.

Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie J. Brown, of Blythehood, was pronounced dead on arrival at Columbia Hospital Wednesday night.

The game was canceled after the first quarter incident. Wiles said he ordered the autopsy when police reported the youth had no apparent injury.

Duke's Jones Lost

With Chest Injury

Durham, N.C. (AP) — Duke's hard charging fullback, Steve Jones, will be lost to the Blue Devils Saturday when they play at Stanford.

Duke coach Mike McGee made the decision not to take Jones Thursday. The player is ailing with a chest injury since an automobile accident Tuesday night.

193.3 per game average both passing and running tops the total offense chart by 30 yards over Iowa State quarterback Dean Carlson.

Husker flanker Johnny Rodgers with a 45.3 average on three returns leads the kickoff returners and he's tied with Kansas State's Bill Butler for the scoring lead, each with five touchdowns for 30 points.

NU defensive back Bill Kosch is the Big Eight's pass interception leader with two for 116 yards.

Passing Trends Developed By NAA Hastings, Doane

... TIGERS RELUCTANT TO THROW

Although it's still very early in the season a couple of airway trends have been developed in the Nebraska Intercollegiate Athletic Conference football statistics.

Doane doesn't pass very much and Hastings doesn't allow its opponents much success in the same department. The Tigers have stayed on the ground for the most part in getting off to a 2-0 start. They have thrown the pigskin only 47 times. That is barely more than half the attempts by the other schools.

And while Hastings has played only two games it's very obvious the Broncos are stingy against the pass. Their opponents have been able to complete only eight receptions out of 38 attempts for a measly .211 average.

And the Broncos can claim four individual category leaders even though they have one less game than all other NIAC schools.

Gary Filipi is the league's best passer, Gary Bendinger the top runner, Dick Metz the top punter, and Ryan Hawley is the top punter. Mike Heinz of Concordia is the kickoff return leader, Reed Stephenson of Wesleyan the interception leader and John McLaughlin of Wesleyan leads in pass receiving and scoring.

There were no league teams which met last week and only one contest this weekend.

However, it is a big one. Hastings travels to Concordia Saturday night and the game could be a pivotal one in deciding the league honors.

New Method Of Valuing Trailers And Mobile Homes Urged

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Omaha — Nebraska county assessors Thursday passed a resolution recommending that the Legislature consider a new method for valuing cabin trailers and mobile homes which are not permanently situated.

At their annual meeting in Omaha, the assessors told representatives of the Legislative Interim Study Committee that the present law presents many problems due to the fact that the value for tax purposes is now based on purchase price.

It was noted that oftentimes identical trailers or mobile homes may be purchased at varying prices from different dealers.

Big Difference
For this reason, there may be a considerable difference in the amount of tax being paid on identical trailers in the same location.

One assessor said that when two owners of like trailers find out that one is paying $150 taxes and the other is paying $175 "the fur begins to fly."

The assessors suggested that in order to establish uniformity in valuation of such vehicles, that the state tax commissioner provide guide books to each assessor listing values to be applied to cabin trailers or mobile homes.

Group Vehicles
The assessors asked that in the guide books the tax commissioner group all vehicles of like quality and determine the actual value, using either a formula of square foot value or a value by length and width.

The assessors noted that the number of such vehicles is increasing each year and failure to tax such property properly "is causing great inequality" to owners of other taxable property within the state.

They contended that under present laws it is impossible for assessors to meet the requirements to equally and fairly inventory and evaluate all tax property within their jurisdictions.

License Or Permit
The resolution passed by the assessors specifically recommends that all cabin trailers, mobile homes or any other such vehicle designed for living quarters which is without motive power, but has provisions for transportation and located in the state for 30 days must have a mobile home license or a parking permit.

Application for the license or permit would be made in the county in which the vehicle is located regardless of the permanent residence of the owner.

As in the licensing of cars and trucks, the license or permit for the trailer or mobile home would not be issued until taxes on the vehicle are paid.

In other action, the assessors also passed a resolution regarding equalization of property values.

In the resolution they stated supervision of equalization must remain a function of the state but that equalization must be attained at the local level.

They stated the sales assessment ratio should be used as a supplement to appraisal as an indicator of problem areas but should not in itself be considered a reliable source of actual value.

"We believe the State Board of Equalization must adjust values in problem areas, based upon adequate information supplied by the Department of Revenue, using adequate appraisal practices to assure accurate definitions of the actual problems," the resolution states.

Walter Giles Named Alcohol Coordinator

Lincoln's Municipal Court judges Thursday announced the appointment of Walter E. Giles as alcohol coordinator with the court's probation department.

The appointment is part of an effort to reduce the number of alcohol-related traffic mishaps. Giles will coordinate existing Lincoln Municipal Court probation programs with the new, federally-funded Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Program.

Chief Probation Officer Robert J. Keller said additional staff members will be hired for the project beginning Dec. 15.

According to Jack Merritt, information director for the Safety Action Program, the new staff members' primary job will be pre-sentence investigation.

Assess Seriousness
He said this would enable the judges to more accurately assess the seriousness of an individual's problem.

McGovern Will Address NU Students

Sen. George McGovern will address University of Nebraska students at the Lincoln campus Friday.

McGovern interrupted his presidential campaign schedule to fly to Washington to vote Thursday in favor of Sen. Mike Mansfield's Senate amendment to set a deadline date for the withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam.

But the South Dakota senator was to resume his schedule after the Senate vote and keep his 1:30 p.m. speaking engagement at NU.

McGovern will address students in the Nebraska Union ballroom and then open the proceedings to questions from the audience.

In his third trip to Nebraska since July, McGovern will fly to Lincoln from Milwaukee, then leave immediately following his appearance for another campus speech in South Dakota and moving on to Minnesota Friday night.

The current campaign swing will take McGovern to more than a dozen college campuses.

Sawdon Gives 2 Reasons For Dip In Car Thefts

Motorists are showing more caution and locking their cars, Police Inspector Robert Sawdon said, as he noted two reasons for the decrease in the number of auto thefts in Lincoln.

The other factor, Sawdon said, is the increase in bicycle thefts. This "might possibly" indicate auto thieves are switching from cars to bicycles, Sawdon said.

An FBI report showed auto thefts decreased to 90 for the first half of this year as compared with 158 for the same period last year.

Sawdon said the total value of bicycles stolen in Lincoln during the first six months surpassed that of autos taken.

"For those people who have an obvious drinking problem, there will be a choice between a stiff jail sentence of an opportunity to deal with the central problem in their life — drinking," Merritt said.

Giles, former alcoholism counselor at the Lincoln Veteran's Hospital, will serve as an intermediary between the Safety Action Program's investigators and the existing probation programs of the Municipal Court, but will be paid by the Safety Action Program.

Enlarge Services
Judge Neal Dusenberry said the new system will permit the court to enlarge their probation services and, through additional pre-sentence investigations, will assist in the early identification of problem drinking drivers.

He said strong correctional programs will be established to resolve those problems that these individuals have.

Judge Donald R. Grant said the court was very fortunate to obtain the services of a person with the excellent background in alcoholism counseling that Giles has.

1,200 Omaha Children Under Title I Benefits

Omaha — The Rev. John Flynn, Omaha Archbishop and director of education, said Thursday that 1,200 children in Omaha private schools will be included in federal Title I benefits this year.

He said that is 300 more than were included in the program a year ago. The new benefits will amount to more than $250,000, he said. Private school children in Omaha have never received more than $85,000 in one year before this, Father Flynn said.

New Method Of Valuing Trailers And Mobile Homes Urged

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Omaha — Nebraska county assessors Thursday passed a resolution recommending that the Legislature consider a new method for valuing cabin trailers and mobile homes which are not permanently situated.

At their annual meeting in Omaha, the assessors told representatives of the Legislative Interim Study Committee that the present law presents many problems due to the fact that the value for tax purposes is now based on purchase price.

It was noted that oftentimes identical trailers or mobile homes may be purchased at varying prices from different dealers.

Big Difference

For this reason, there may be a considerable difference in the amount of tax being paid on identical trailers in the same location.

One assessor said that when two owners of like trailers find out that one is paying $150 taxes and the other is paying $175 "the fur begins to fly."

The assessors suggested that in order to establish uniformity in valuation of such vehicles, that the state tax commissioner provide guide books to each assessor listing values to be applied to cabin trailers or mobile homes.

Group Vehicles

The assessors asked that in the guide books the tax commissioner group all vehicles of like quality and determine the actual value, using either a formula of square foot value or a value by length and width.

The assessors noted that the number of such vehicles is increasing each year and failure to tax such property properly "is causing great inequality" to owners of other taxable property within the state.

They contended that under present laws it is impossible for assessors to meet the requirements to equally and fairly inventory and evaluate all tax property within their jurisdictions.

License Or Permit

The resolution passed by the assessors specifically recommends that all cabin trailers, mobile homes or any other such vehicle designed for living quarters which is without motive power, but has provisions for transportation and located in the state for 30 days must have a mobile home license or a parking permit.

Application for the license or permit would be made in the county in which the vehicle is located regardless of the permanent residence of the owner.

As in the licensing of cars and trucks, the license or permit for the trailer or mobile home would not be issued until taxes on the vehicle are paid.

In other action, the assessors also passed a resolution regarding equalization of property values.

In the resolution they stated supervision of equalization must remain a function of the state but that equalization must be attained at the local level.

They stated the sales assessment ratio should be used as a supplement to appraisal as an indicator of problem areas but should not in itself be considered a reliable source of actual value.

"We believe the State Board of Equalization must adjust values in problem areas, based upon adequate information supplied by the Department of Revenue, using adequate appraisal practices to assure accurate definitions of the actual problems," the resolution states.

Walter Giles Named Alcohol Coordinator

Lincoln's Municipal Court judges Thursday announced the appointment of Walter E. Giles as alcohol coordinator with the court's probation department.

The appointment is part of an effort to reduce the number of alcohol-related traffic mishaps. Giles will coordinate existing Lincoln Municipal Court probation programs with the new, federally-funded Lincoln Alcohol Safety Action Program.

Chief Probation Officer

Robert J. Keller said additional staff members will be hired for the project beginning Dec. 15.

According to Jack Merritt, information director for the Safety Action Program, the new staff members' primary job will be pre-sentence investigation.

Assess Seriousness

He said this would enable the judges to more accurately assess the seriousness of an individual's problem.

"For those people who have an obvious drinking problem, there will be a choice between a stiff jail sentence of an opportunity to deal with the central problem in their life — drinking," Merritt said.

Giles, former alcoholism counselor at the Lincoln Veteran's Hospital, will serve as an intermediary between the Safety Action Program's investigators and the existing probation programs of the Municipal Court, but will be paid by the Safety Action Program.

Enlarge Services

Judge Neal Dusenberry said the new system will permit the court to enlarge their probation services and, through additional pre-sentence investigations, will assist in the early identification of problem drinking drivers.

He said strong correctional programs will be established to resolve those problems that these individuals have.

Judge Donald R. Grant said the court was very fortunate to obtain the services of a person with the excellent background in alcoholism counseling that Giles has.

McGovern Will Address NU Students

Sen. George McGovern will address University of Nebraska students at the Lincoln campus Friday.

McGovern interrupted his presidential campaign schedule to fly to Washington to vote Thursday in favor of Sen. Mike Mansfield's Senate amendment to set a deadline date for the withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam.

But the South Dakota senator was to resume his schedule after the Senate vote and keep his 1:30 p.m. speaking engagement at NU.

McGovern will address students in the Nebraska Union ballroom and then open the proceedings to questions from the audience.

In his third trip to Nebraska since July, McGovern will fly to Lincoln from Milwaukee, then leave immediately following his appearance for another campus speech in South Dakota and moving on to Minnesota Friday night.

The current campaign swing will take McGovern to more than a dozen college campuses.

Sawdon Gives 2 Reasons For Dip In Car Thefts

Motorists are showing more caution and locking their cars, Police Inspector Robert Sawdon said, as he noted two reasons for the decrease in the number of auto thefts in Lincoln.

The other factor, Sawdon said, is the increase in bicycle thefts. This "might possibly" indicate auto thieves are switching from cars to bicycles, Sawdon said.

An FBI report showed auto thefts decreased to 90 for the first half of this year as compared with 158 for the same period last year.

Sawdon said the total value of bicycles stolen in Lincoln during the first six months surpassed that of autos taken.

ABA Official Says 'Average Man' Must Have Access To Legal Help

The president-elect of the American Bar Association (ABA) said Thursday the organized bar must act to make legal services more accessible to the moderate-income person.

Robert W. Meserve of Boston spoke at the 72nd annual meeting of the Nebraska State Bar Association being held in Lincoln.

Unless this is done, he said, outside forces "not restrained by professional, ethical requirements" will produce fundamental changes in the practice of law — detrimental to both the legal profession and society as a whole.

Meserve said that while the poor are increasingly assured of adequate legal representation and the rich have always been able to afford legal help, the legal profession has overlooked the middle economic group or the average man.

He said this group includes some 140 million Americans.

It is necessary, he said, to "address ourselves to the problem of this segment of the public having the ability to pay for legal services."

But, he added, the ability to pay must be "enhanced by arrangements to make payment less onerous and painful."

He said the ABA began serious exploration of prepaid legal service systems in 1969 to test feasibility of plans which would allow the client free choice of a lawyer.

Through grants by the ABA and other organizations, two such experimental programs have been initiated. One started in Shreveport, La., in January, 1971, and another is scheduled to begin soon in Los Angeles.

Essentially, Meserve said, the prepaid legal service plan works much like group medical insurance.

He said labor organizations are beginning to negotiate for legal services as a fringe benefit in work contracts, the same as health and welfare plans, and legal profession must adapt to change but also "preserve the essence of our independence as a profession serving the public."

During the luncheon, the state association's "President's Award" was given to Herman Ginsburg, a Lincoln attorney, in "recognition of outstanding contribution to the furtherance of public understanding of the legal system and confidence in the profession."

Kenneth H. James, an Omaha television station general manager, received the state bar's "award of appreciation" for outstanding service in creating better public understanding of the legal system and profession."

Nebraska Trial Attorneys Elect William Mueller

William P. Mueller of Ogallala was elected president of the Nebraska Association of Trial Attorneys during the group's annual meeting Thursday in Lincoln.

Other elected officers were Hal Bauer of Lincoln, vice president, David B. Downing of Superior, secretary, and Jack Higgins of Omaha, treasurer.

Richard Fellman of Omaha and John R. Doyle, Con Keating and Earl Witthoff, all of Lincoln, were named to the board of directors.

The trial attorneys also endorsed the State Bar Association's recommendations for improving the state's automobile insurance laws and the tort system of liability.

South Africa Says No Atheists Allowed

Durban, South Africa (AP) — Immigration authorities have told the Association for European Immigration that atheists will not be permitted to settle in South Africa.

Hamilton Heads District Judges

The Nebraska State District Judges Association Thursday elected Judge Donald Hamilton of Omaha as its 1971-72 president.

Other officers named were Judge Elmer Scheele of Lincoln, vice president, and Judge Donald Weaver of Grand Island, secretary-treasurer.

The group's meeting in Lincoln was held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Nebraska State Bar Association.

Rail Meeting Set

The Railroad Transportation Safety District monthly meeting will be at 8 a.m. Monday in the City Council Chambers of the County-City Building.

Nobel Peace Prize Winner, Bunche, Retires From U.N.

©The New York Times

United Nations, N.Y. — Ralph J. Bunche, under-secretary general for special political affairs, and winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950, has retired from the United Nations.

Bunche has been seriously ill for many months, suffering from complications of many ailments — kidney malfunction, diabetes, heart disease, and most recently, the after effects of a fall from bed in which he broke his right arm.

He entered New York Hospital most recently last May, was discharged last Saturday but re-entered the hospital Thursday.

The retirement became effective in June but was not announced at the time. Secretary General Thant hoped that Bunche would recover and be able to return to his duties.

But it became evident that there was little chance of this happening. It also was felt that to preserve Bunche's pension rights he should be retired.

Mediator In Mideast

Bunche was a prominent participant in many efforts by the United Nations to restore and preserve world peace. In September 1949, he succeeded Count Folke Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator who was assassinated in Jerusalem.

Bunche assumed the job of negotiating armistice agreements between the new state of Israel and its Arab opponents in the 1948 war for independence—Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.

He was the highest American official in the United Nations, an intimate adviser to the secretary general.

Dr. Bunche, a Negro, was not known for his militancy although he did speak out on many occasions and even joined a civil rights march in Selma, Ala., despite ill health at the time.

In one incident that came to public knowledge, his son, Ralph Jr., was refused membership in the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N.Y.

The club official responsible for barring the son resigned and Bunche received an apology.

Was In State Dept.

Bunche served in the State Department, working on plans for the establishment of the United Nations in 1945.

When he came to the United Nations a year later, it was to do trusteeship work, dealing with colonies and so-called dependent territories.

In January, 1955, he became an undersecretary without specific responsibilities, which left him free for top-level trouble shooting, working under the direction of the secretary general.

His career had a strong academic start. After graduating from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1927 and completing his master of arts and doctorate of philosophy at Harvard in 1934, he taught in the political science department of Howard University.

Bunche, now 67, also collaborated between 1938 and 1940 with Gunnar Myrdal, the Swedish scholar, in the study (now classic) of the Negro question in America — "An American Dilemma."

In the course of gathering research Bunche and Myrdal were chased across a considerable stretch of Alabama by an angry crowd of small-town whites.

Golfers Decline To Play Through

Doylestown, Pa. (UPI) — Joseph W. Havel was perfectly willing to let the foursome he encountered on the seventh hole of the Doylestown Country Club play through, but they wouldn't hear of it.

Havel had gotten to the seventh hole the hard way. He sealed the 40-foot wall of the nearby Bucks County Prison where he was being held for questioning about some robberies, but fractured his right ankle. He crawled to the tall grass of the rough on the seventh hole where he was spotted by the foursome, which consisted of Doylestown Police Chief Kenneth Tutt and three of his patrolmen.

End Of Child Smallpox Shot Recommended

Washington (AP) — Because of significant progress in the fight against smallpox, the U.S. surgeon general recommended Thursday that all states halt the requirement of routine smallpox vaccinations for children.

Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld announced acceptance of recommendations from the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices, which said the shots should be given only to hospital personnel and persons traveling to countries where smallpox has not been eradicated.

Steinfeld made his announcement to representatives of 29 Western Hemisphere nations taking part in a joint Pan American Health Organization and World Health Organization meeting.

Stokes Outlines Strategy

Chicago (AP) — Mayor Carl E. Stokes of Cleveland disclosed a national black blueprint for the 1972 election year Thursday, keynoted by "developing and understanding the power which will come through coalition politics."

Stokes, who earlier said he will not seek a third term as Cleveland mayor, declared he does not want to be a presidential candidate and added, "and I'm certainly not available for vice president."

Stokes' address highlighted the political side of the Black Expo exhibition dedicated mainly to business unity.

Stokes said he did not favor a third party, but proposes "the end of political voluntary servitude . . . the end of being unrewarded servants of either major political party."

Stokes outlined five points "as our only commitment."

"1. Black elected officials and black voters, Republican and Democrat, make no commitment to any of the announced or easily draftable candidates for president."

"2. Black voters concern themselves with issues, not personalities."

"3. Black voters in their respective states start now in the process of deciding upon delegates to the 1972 political party conventions."

"4. Develop communication now with other political minority groups as the issues are framed and common interests identified for coalition purposes."

"5. Send your delegates to the conventions with a full understanding of why they are there—to represent us, not to snatch at some crumb offered them by the old line organization and that they be unequivocally committed on the issues and on the full compliance with the selection processes."

Prof. Rozman Denied Mexican Work Permit

Former University of Nebraska Political Science Prof. Stephen Rozman said Thursday it appears "the Mexican government played a board of trustees role" in denying him access to the country and to his new job.

Rozman said he had been informed by the chairman of the department in which he was to work at the University of the Americas in Puebla that the Mexican government had denied him a work permit. He said he is in Lincoln awaiting the Oct. 27 trial in U.S. District Court here on his suit against the University of Nebraska Board of Regents.

The board voted last February not to rehire Rozman, charging him with improprieties stemming from antiwar demonstrations of May 1970.

"Apparently somebody in this area out the clipping," Rozman said, "and sent it to the administration of the University of the Americas."

When, in early August, he was informed of a problem over his appointment, Rozman said he sent a file on the case to James Hamon, chairman of the department of history and international relations in Puebla.

Hamon, he said, later informed him that "all seven members of the department strongly agree the case is a farce," but said the university's administration was having "misgivings."

Rozman said he was told the administration believed it was obligated to inform the Mexican government of the case, although it was sure to cost him the job.

"The key is the Mexican government," he said, and added that since it apparently nixed his appointment indirectly it was playing a university "board of trustees role."

Rozman said he still has not been officially informed by the university in Puebla that he doesn't have the job. "It appears to me the administration did not act in good faith."

He said he has interviewed for a number of teaching jobs starting next fall, and added he is doing some research work in Lincoln awaiting start of the trial.

U.S., Russia Ink Accidental War Prevention Agreements

Washington (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers said the agreements were "realistic and concrete steps forward." But of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) that resume in Vienna in November, he said: "Considerable progress has been made in this large endeavor, but much remains to be done."

Gromyko said: "The agreements signed today do not yet solve in any way a substance of the problem of limiting strategic armaments. This task is still outstanding and the par-secutives to solve it."

Opel Announces Opel Recall For Bad Windshields

Flint, Mich. (UPI) — Some 100,000 of the 1970, 1971 and 1972 model German-built Opels are being recalled to dealers because their windshields could pop out during a high-impact collision, Buick Motor Division announced Thursday.

A spokesman for Buick, the General Motors Division which sells Opels in this country, said there are no known accidents or injuries as a result of the condition.

At present, the vehicles do not conform to the windshield retention requirements of a federal motor vehicle safety standard.

Nobel Peace Prize Winner, Bunche, Retires From U.N.

•The New York Times
United Nations, N.Y. — Ralph J. Bunche, under-secretary general for special political affairs, and winner of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950, has retired from the United Nations.

Bunche has been seriously ill for many months, suffering from complications of many ailments — kidney malfunction, diabetes, heart disease and, most recently, the after effects of a fall from bed in which he broke his right arm.

He entered New York Hospital most recently last May, was discharged last Saturday but re-entered the hospital Thursday.

The retirement became effective in June but was not announced at the time. Secretary General Thant hoped that Bunche would recover and be able to return to his duties.

But it became evident that there was little chance of this happening. It also was felt that to preserve Bunche's pension rights he should be retired.

Mediator In Mideast
Bunche was a prominent participant in many efforts by the United Nations to restore and preserve world peace. In September 1949, he succeeded Count Folke Bernadotte, the United Nations mediator who was assassinated in Jerusalem.

Bunche assumed the job of negotiating a truce between the new state of Israel and its Arab opponents in the 1948 war for independence—Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.

He was the highest American official in the United Nations, an intimate adviser to the secretary general.

Dr. Bunche, a Negro, was not known for his militancy although he did speak out on many occasions and even joined a civil rights march in Selma, Ala., despite ill health at the time.

In one incident that came to public knowledge, his son, Ralph Jr., was refused membership in the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N.Y.

The club official responsible for barring the son resigned and Bunche received an apology.

Was In State Dept.
Bunche served in the State Department, working on plans for the establishment of the United Nations in 1945.

When he came to the United Nations a year later, it was to do trusteeship work, dealing with colonies and so-called dependent territories.

In January, 1955, he became an undersecretary without specific responsibilities, which left him free for top-level trouble shooting, working under the direction of the secretary general.

His career had a strong academic start. After graduating from the University of California at Los Angeles in 1927 and completing his master of arts and doctorate of philosophy at Harvard in 1934, he taught in the political science department of Howard University.

Bunche, now 67, also collaborated between 1938 and 1940 with Gunnar Myrdal, the Swedish scholar, in the study (now classic) of the Negro question in America — "An American Dilemma."

In the course of gathering research Bunche and Myrdal were chased across a considerable stretch of Alabama by an angry crowd of small-town whites.

Dr. Bunche made his announcement to representatives of 29 Western Hemisphere nations taking part in a joint Pan American Health Organization and World Health Organization meeting.

"5. Send your delegates to the conventions with a full understanding of why they are there—to represent us, not to snatch at some crumbs offered them by the old line organization and that they be unequivocally committed on the issues and on the full compliance with the selection processes."

The ambassador, who recently arrived in Paris as the chief U.S. negotiator in place of Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, said that after years of the "best" military efforts the Communists have failed to capture any of the 300 districts of provincial centers in South Vietnam.

"You are, in fact, further from military victory than ever," Porter told them. "In such circumstances, your use of peremptory language seems rather pretentious."

He retorted that the Americans were practicing "an ostrich policy" and said they were "obstinate aggressors who either don't understand what's going on or are deliberately closing their eyes to facts."

He filed suit seeking $100,000 in damages and return to his position on the Lincoln campus.

The events leading to the denial of the work permit apparently began with publication of a Lincoln news story in mid-summer that he had accepted a job at Puebla.

"Apparently somebody in this area cut out the clipping," Rozman said, "and sent it to the administration of the University of the Americas."

When, in early August, he was informed of a problem over his appointment, Rozman said he sent a file on the case to James Hamon, chairman of the department of history and international relations in Puebla.

Hamon, he said, later informed him that "all seven members of the department strongly agree the case is a

He said he has interviewed for a number of teaching jobs starting next fall, and added he is doing some research work in Lincoln awaiting start of the trial.

Washington (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko signed two agreements Thursday aimed at preventing accidental war. Both men cautioned during a brief State Dept. ceremony that much remained to be done on limiting strategic armaments.

One agreement states that the two nations will improve safeguards over nuclear weapons to prevent accidental or unauthorized use. The other establishes a faster operating hot-line between Washington and Moscow.

In a brief ceremony in the Washington (UPI) — Because of significant progress in the fight against smallpox, the U.S. surgeon general recommended Thursday that all states halt the requirement of routine smallpox vaccinations for children.

Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld announced acceptance of recommendations from the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices, which said the shots should be given only to hospital personnel and persons traveling to countries where smallpox has not been eradicated.

Steinfeld made his announcement to representatives of 29 Western Hemisphere nations taking part in a joint Pan American Health Organization and World Health Organization meeting.

"4. Develop communication now with other political minority groups as the issues are framed and common interests identified for coalition purposes."

"5. Send your delegates to the conventions with a full understanding of why they are there—to represent us, not to snatch at some crumbs offered them by the old line organization and that they be unequivocally committed on the issues and on the full compliance with the selection processes."

The ambassador, who recently arrived in Paris as the chief U.S. negotiator in place of Ambassador David K. E. Bruce, said that after years of the "best" military efforts the Communists have failed to capture any of the 300 districts of provincial centers in South Vietnam.

"You are, in fact, further from military victory than ever," Porter told them. "In such circumstances, your use of peremptory language seems rather pretentious."

He retorted that the Americans were practicing "an ostrich policy" and said they were "obstinate aggressors who either don't understand what's going on or are deliberately closing their eyes to facts."

He filed suit seeking $100,000 in damages and return to his position on the Lincoln campus.

The events leading to the denial of the work permit apparently began with publication of a Lincoln news story in mid-summer that he had accepted a job at Puebla.

"Apparently somebody in this area cut out the clipping," Rozman said, "and sent it to the administration of the University of the Americas."

When, in early August, he was informed of a problem over his appointment, Rozman said he sent a file on the case to James Hamon, chairman of the department of history and international relations in Puebla.

Hamon, he said, later informed him that "all seven members of the department strongly agree the case is a farce," but said the university's administration was having "misgivings."

Rozman said he was told the administration believed it was obligated to inform the Mexican government of the case, although it was sure to cost him the job.

"The key is the Mexican government," he said, and added that since it apparently nixed his appointment in direct to the university "board of trustees role."

Rozman said he still has not been officially informed by the university in Puebla that he doesn't have the job. "It appears to me the administration did not act in good faith."

He said he has interviewed for a number of teaching jobs starting next fall, and added he is doing some research work in Lincoln awaiting start of the trial.

Washington (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko signed two agreements Thursday aimed at preventing accidental war. Both men cautioned during a brief State Dept. ceremony that much remained to be done on limiting strategic armaments.

One agreement states that the two nations will improve safeguards over nuclear weapons to prevent accidental or unauthorized use. The other establishes a faster operating hot-line between Washington and Moscow.

Washington (UPI) — Because of significant progress in the fight against smallpox, the U.S. surgeon general recommended Thursday that all states halt the requirement of routine smallpox vaccinations for children.

Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld announced acceptance of recommendations from the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices, which said the shots should be given only to hospital personnel and persons traveling to countries where smallpox has not been eradicated.

Steinfeld made his announcement to representatives of 29 Western Hemisphere nations taking part in a joint Pan American Health Organization and World Health Organization meeting.

Chicago (UPI) — Mayor Carl B. Stokes of Cleveland disclosed a national black blueprint for the 1972 election year Thursday, keynoted by "developing and understanding the power which will come through coalition politics."

Stokes, who earlier said he will not seek a third term as Cleveland mayor, declared he does not want to be a presidential candidate and added, "and I'm certainly not available for vice president."

Stokes' address highlighted the political side of the Black Expo exhibition dedicated mainly to business unity.

Stokes said he did not favor a third party, but proposes "the end of political voluntary servitude... the end of being unrewarded servants of either major political party."

Stokes outlined five points "as our only commitment."

"1. Black elected officials and black voters, Republican and Democrat, make no commitment to any of the announced or easily draftable candidates for president."

"2. Black voters concern themselves with issues, not personalities."
